

MAY BE CASE OF MURDER.

Body of an Unknown Man Found on Track—May Have Been Thrown There After Death

There is considerable mystery surrounding the finding of the body of an unknown white man now lying on a slab at the Morgue. The body was found at an early hour this morning lying between the rails of the narrow gauge track on this side of the Harrison street railroad bridge.

The body is apparently that of a laboring man about 25 years of age. The remains were dressed in rough clothes. The hands were rough from labor. In the pockets was found a watch-chain and charm, a Chinese lottery ticket, a knife and a fountain pen.

The deceased was struck by the last train last night or the first train this morning. The body was badly mutilated. Whether the man was walking along the track when killed or whether the body was placed on the rails, is yet unsolved. The vicinity where the body was found is a gathering place of seafaring men and abounds with low resorts. The theory is suggested that the man was drugged and robbed and then placed on the track to be run over by the first train and remove evidence of the crime.

It is known that the deceased had been drinking all evening in company with several companions, and what strengthens the belief that he was robbed is that a chain, but no watch was found. His pockets were entirely empty of money. He was evidently a sea-going man, as a small compass was found attached to the watch-chain and his face was bronzed, as though exposed to the elements.

The Coroner has taken charge of the remains and his deputies are endeavoring to solve the mystery.

The railroad authorities today stated that they had examined the engine and could find no trace of blood. They believe the man was murdered and his body thrown on the track.

The Coroner's office believe it is a case of murder.

WILL NOT CALL EXTRA SESSION

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WILL NOT DEAL WITH COAL STRIKE FOR PRESENT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—There will be no call for an extra session of Congress to deal with the coal strike situation at this stage. The President explicitly stated in his appeal to the operators and representatives of the miners yesterday that he did not act officially in calling them together. He has for the time being executed his individual resources. In his view the matter is again one with which the State of Pennsylvania should deal. If the commonwealth find itself unable to control the situation and appeals to him through constitutional channels, the President will be ready to bring into play the great force of the national government, military and civil. But for the time being, the President has relaxed his efforts.

OAKLAND HIGH SCHOOL BOYS STEAL A HUGE SIGN.

BERKELEY, Oct. 4.—The quiet of Berkeley was again disturbed last night, but this time by a riotous band of students from the Oakland High School, who stole from the hills back of Berkeley, a huge real estate sign and carried it with them to Oakland to hold as a trophy at the High School grounds.

The sign was located on top of the first slope, and originally bore the word "Buy" painted in huge letters, which could be read for miles around. Some enterprising members of the Berkeley High School, realizing the value of the location for advertising purposes, changed the sign to read "B. H. S." It was this that stirred the ire of the Oakland High School pupils, and impelled them to their action.

The sign was torn down and carried board by board on the cars to Oakland, where it was again set up in display form in the grounds of the Oakland High School.

The merchants of the town are becoming tired of the sign swiping habit, and it is very probable that if evidence against the offenders can be obtained, they will be prosecuted before the law. At the present time not a sign of any kind can be seen around Berkeley, which is not bolted down, or otherwise securely fixed. The merchants of the town say that there are enough sign thieves in Berkeley without importing any from the outside.

Principal J. H. Pond of the Oakland High School had the following to say in regard to the matter:

"I will start an investigation on Monday and I can assure you that the offenders, when detected, will be punished to the limit. I am as much ashamed of them as President Wheeler was of his students over the recent riot on the Berkeley local. The spirit of the school thus far has been good and I am somewhat surprised at last night's performance. The boys had an athletic rally last night, and I suppose that they became over-enthusiastic. That, however, does not excuse them, and if they have offended, they must be punished."

The students of the Berkeley High School take the affair in the nature of a challenge. This morning it was feared that trouble would result between the two schools at the semi-annual meet of the Academic Athletic League. Principal Pond of Oakland and Principal James of Berkeley High School were both on the field this afternoon to prevent any such trouble.

BIG DEAL IN WATER

Senator Felton Making Negotiations For a Syndicate.

Will Spend Three Million Dollars and Supply Four Counties.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—Senator C. N. Felton, with a syndicate of Eastern moneyed men, is to buy one of the biggest water right properties in the West. Expert engineers are now at work preparing estimates of the value of the South Yuba Water Company's plant. Senator Felton awaits the result of this work before paying over the price of the plant.

At least $3,000,000 will change hands when the deal is consummated. Four counties of California will be fed with the water that Senator Felton's company supplies. The transfer of the property is expected to result in a marked stimulus in both agricultural and manufacturing lines in these four counties.

Last night Mr. Felton was seen at the Pacific Union Club and was asked to tell the status of the negotiations for the big property.

He was reluctant to give any details of the proceeding and deprecated publicity in the matter until it should be actually settled.

He admitted that agents are now preparing reports on the Yuba Water Company's plant, and that a syndicate is prepared to take over the property when a price is agreed upon.

If this syndicate acquires the property in question big developments will be made and its capacity for irrigating the lands of Nevada and Placer largely increased.

But it is in the field of electrical power that the greatest development of the Yuba Water Company's resources will be made by the new syndicate.

It is said to be immense possibilities in this direction that have never been recognized, and manufacturing industries of various kinds will be greatly stimulated in the region of Nevada, Sacramento and through Grass Valley. Should the Yuba Water Company's change of ownership be made, as now seems certain.

UNKNOWN FOUND DEAD.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 4.—An unknown man was found dead last night one mile east of Tunnel 13, between Summit and Truckee. He had been run over by a train.

HE CHALLENGED MURDER CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—It is not known whether President Roosevelt will issue a statement commenting upon the result of yesterday's coal conference. Some of the Cabinet members will advise against such a course. There is disappointment that the effort of the President met with no better success, but it seems to be the opinion of those who are cognizant of the situation that the administration can do no more. The good offices of the President to settle the strike was the limit of his power.

Last evening the operators who were in the conference called upon Secretary Root, but the position they had assumed made it impossible to carry the negotiations further, although various phases of the situation were briefly discussed.

President Mitchell and the other members of the anthracite miners' committee who attended yesterday's conference, left Washington at 10:15 today over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, for their headquarters at Wilkesbarre.

Before boarding the train, Mr. Mitchell said that presumably soon after his arrival at Wilkesbarre he would issue directions to the miners as to how to proceed. Asked what directions, if any, he would issue, he replied that any direction issued would only be for the continuance of the strike.

"Do you feel," he was asked, that public sentiment will sustain you in continuing the strike?"

"I certainly must do so, after the result of yesterday's conference," he replied. "We are confident that we have the sympathy of every workingman in the country and we believe that we will have the financial support of most of them."

"Is the outside contribution sufficient to relieve present demands?"

"I can't state the exact amount, but so far we have been able to relieve all cases of absolute want and we expect the contributions to increase in volume. We feel quite confident of being able to continue the strike through the winter, but we shall regret very much to have to do so, not only on our own account, but on account of the public. Indeed, if only the interests of the miners, and the operators were concerned, the strike would be of comparatively little importance."

Mr. Mitchell referred to the charge of lawlessness made by the operators yesterday, saying:

"Several of them made the statement that there had been twenty murders by the strikers since the beginning of the strike. We challenged the statement on the spot and I volunteered to tender my resignation then and there, if it could be proved that there has been twenty deaths all told from violence, since the inception of the strike. The proposition was not accepted. The truth is that there have been just seven deaths and three of those were caused by the Coal and Iron Police employed by mine operators. The trouble is that these men never go to the mines and they would without question all the representations made to them."

Overland Train Meets With Disaster at Dixon.

Engineer McGraw Will Die From His Injuries.

DIXON, Cal., Oct. 4.—Eastern overland, No. 5, Westbound, and due in San Francisco at 4:25 p. m., was wrecked at Dixon at 2 p. m. today.

Gus Bauer a commercial traveler, representing Baker & Hamilton of Sacramento, is dead and Engineer Billy McGraw, is so badly mangled that he will probably die.

The fireman (name unknown) escaped injury.

Gus Bauer was riding in the cab with Engineer McGraw and was mashed and bruised beyond all semblance of human form.

Train No. 5 is not supposed to stop between Sacramento and Benicia.

In coming into the Dixon yard she was given the "board" for a clear track.

About 100 yards beyond the Dixon depot a freight train, which was standing on the siding, pushed the end of her train partly out on the main line.

In an instant the big passenger engine had crashed into the box car, reducing the end of it to splinters. The right side of the cab was demolished.

Gus Bauer, the commercial traveler, was evidently occupying the engineer's seat, as his body was pinned in that side of the cab.

None of the passengers were injured.

STORMED THE MORO FORTS.

American Soldiers Whip the Filipinos in True Yankee Style—Peace May Result.

MANILA, Oct. 4.—Captain John Pershing's column has completely routed the Maclen Moros in the island of Mindanao, killing or wounding a hundred of them and capturing and destroying forty forts. Two Americans were wounded.

On Tuesday the Moros retired to their largest and strongest fort on the lake shore and Wednesday Captain Pershing attacked them with artillery, bombarding the enemy for three hours. At noon Lieut. Loring, leading a squad of men, attempted to set fire to the fort. He crept under the walls and started a blaze, but the Moros discovered him and forced the Americans to retreat.

During the afternoon the Sultan of Cabulan led a sortie at the head of a band of fanatics, armed with kris. They crept through the grass and sprang up and attacked the Americans. The Sultan was wounded six times and killed an American before he died. His followers were killed.

In the darkness Wednesday night Captain Pershing took his batteries within a hundred yards of the fort, closed in his infantry lines and resumed the attack. The Moros broke through twice and attempted to escape by the beach, but were discovered and many of them were killed.

The Moros abandoned the fort early on Thursday, after fifteen hours bombardment, and Thursday, Captain Pershing destroyed the rest of the forts and returned to Camp Vicars.

It is believed the moral effect on the Moros will be great. General Davis has ordered that hostilities be stayed in order to permit the Sultans of Bacalod and other hostile Sultans to make peace.

The Sultans of Macu were confident of their ability to defeat the Americans and vowed before the fight to enter slavery voluntarily if they themselves were defeated.

General Davis has sent General Sumner, in command of the American forces in Mindanao, a congratulatory telegram on the success of Captain Pershing and the small American loss.

It is a matter that will, or ought to, concern you for years after the purchase. With us it is not so much in the sale we make you to-day as it is to ESTABLISH A CONFIDENCE WITH YOU. The reasons are simple: You get the goods upon an honest representation of their character, and you buy them ABOUT AS PER CENT cheaper than you can from any other dealer.

JAMES B. BARBER.

A man who always does his duty, who always attends to his business strictly and who conducts his office, not only as the law directs, but to the entire satisfaction of the taxpayers, to whom he is always courteous, obliging and attentive. That is James B. Barber, good citizen, good officer, good Republican and staunch friend: Tax Collector of Alameda county and Republican nominee for re-election. This is a good deal to say of any man, but it is all true of Jim Barber, and there is more to his credit.

Mr. Barber has been Tax Collector continuously for the past eight years. He formerly served a term of two years. His record is flawless. His management of the Tax Collector's office challenges comparison. Alameda county has never had a more capable or a more trustworthy officer, nor one who appreciates more the responsibilities of his position or has exhibited greater consideration for the public. He has denied no accommodation that he could lawfully extend, and has exhibited the same courtesy in the discharge of his official duties as he would in the dispatch of his own private business. In every respect he is a model officer, prompt, competent and upright.

A stranger than James B. Barber does not walk in Alameda county. He is straight officially and politically, a plain up-and-down man of business, who guides his conduct on lines of self-respect and fair dealing—a rugged, robust personality that needs no hall mark to advertise its true stuff.

The public has never found its confidence in Mr. Barber misplaced. He has never been required to explain or make excuses for anything that occurred in his office. Everything is as plain as a pike-staff and as open as the day. His books balance to a cent and his returns are made on the minute. His work is done up to the handle without confusion or flourish of trumpets.

What more can the people want in a Tax Collector? How can any improvement be made? What excuse is there for turning this faithful official out to make room for a new man? There is no likelihood of such a foolish thing being done, but it is not amiss to say that every sound business rule forbids making a change when everything is so satisfactory. No man can offer a decent reason against Mr. Barber's reelection, and it would be manifestly most unwise not to re-elect him. Mr. Barber has held office long because he has shown himself to be worthy and competent, because he has lived up to his obligations like a man and has a record that nobly has the hardihood to impeach. He will hold office for four years more for the same reason.

VALUE OF IMPROVEMENTS.

Charlottesville, Virginia, is wrestling with a proposition to bond the city for public improvements. By way of instructing its readers on the issue the Charlottesville Progress points to the example of the neighboring city of Danville. The Progress says:

"Danville voted a bond issue for street improvement in June, 1899, and began the work in 1900. Although the tax rate in that city is $1.30, with a much higher assessment of property than in Charlottesville, capitalists do not seem to have been alarmed in consequence. Since the bond issue the following enterprises have been started in Danville: a $1,000,000 cotton factory, a $100,000 electric plant, one of the largest furniture factories in the South, a tobacco factory by the American Tobacco Company, the Dudley Block, costing $50,000; a knitting mill enlarged until it is one of the largest and most prosperous in the South, and more residences than in any ten years of her history."

"These are some of the improvements which have accompanied the issue of street bonds in Danville. If nothing more than a coincidence, it goes to show that, despite a high tax rate, capital goes where the prospect is inviting and where the city does her part in contributing to the value of local investments."

"Good streets would mean an increase in value of every business and residential property in Charlottesville." Every word of this has a peculiar application to Oakland at this time. We want good streets, suitable public buildings, more school houses and public parks. Whatever the cost of procuring them, they will add to the beauty and attractiveness of the city, and increase the value of every foot of property. Why should we hesitate about procuring them when the benefits are so obvious?

If the students of the University of California could see the sensational accounts published in the large Eastern journals of their recent escapade, they would realize how much harm they have done the University. It is mortifying to see such scare-heads as "Riotous Outbreak of California Students" over a dispatch in a Chicago paper. It is to be hoped the incident will be a lesson to those who participated in it.

It will be observed that President Baer did not plead divine right when President Roosevelt called upon the coal barons to confer about ending the strike. Nothing like a little practical lesson for puncturing a pious fraud.

A QUEER REPUBLICAN.

The nomination of Eugene Foss, a wealthy manufacturer, by the Republicans in the Eleventh Massachusetts district on a "free coal, free iron, free wool and free hides" platform has stirred up quite a disturbance politically in the East. Mr. Foss, who is a brother of Congressman Foss of Illinois, made a fight in the primaries directly attacking the tariff plank of the Republican State platform. In addition to his "free raw materials" program, he announced himself as in favor of reciprocity with Cuba. He was opposed by the regular party organization with a candidate who stood by the orthodox Republican principle of protection, but Foss managed to win out by a narrow majority.

Who will Mr. Foss act with when he gets to Congress? While nominally elected as a Republican, it is clear that he cannot hold to his anti-election tariff views and act with the Republicans. It follows that he must run in a group by himself or join forces with the Democrats. If he goes by himself, he can accomplish nothing, for legislation in Congress is essentially a government of parties. If he joins with the Democrats he will have to line up with the opposition in fighting the Republican organization and policy.

The Republicans of the Eleventh Massachusetts district might as well have elected a Democrat at once as to elect a pretended Republican who advocates the Democratic theory of the leading question now before the country. All Mr. Foss can do is to embarrass the Republican party, and Republican voters might have been in better business than electing a Congressman to do that. They would do less harm to send an outright Democrat to Congress.

SPEAKER HENDERSON.

The Fresno Republican has got the wrong sow by the ear in this paragraph:

"The Oakland Tribune, referring to certain absurd innuendoes as to the underlying causes of Speaker Henderson's retirement, says, incidentally: 'The people were not informed whether Henderson was addicted to wine, women, or to all three.'"

No such statement ever appeared in the columns of this paper. THE TRIBUNE is a warm admirer of Speaker Henderson, and has made no comments on his retirement from politics that were not respectful. We think he made a mistake, but we have never given the slightest credence, let alone publicity, to the rumor that there was some scandalous reason for his refusal to run again for Congress. Our Fresno contemporary must look in other journals for articles defaming Republican statesmen. THE TRIBUNE is not in that business.

FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT.

The excellence of the Republican county ticket cannot be gainsaid. Its nominees are all men of unquestioned good character and undoubted capacity. They are representative men, well-known in the community, with records in public and private life that commend them to the confidence and esteem of their fellow citizens.

Every man on the ticket is thoroughly competent to perform the duties of the office for which he has been named. Nearly every nominee has been tried as an official and not found wanting. They have given the public honest, efficient service, and that is what is desired in the local government.

Politically they are in accord with the dominant sentiment in Alameda county, but politics aside, they are worthy of trust because they have proved themselves worthy. As a business proposition they should be elected. Whether politics or business be taken as the point of view, the advantage of the Republican ticket are apparent. Looked at from both a political and business standpoint, the odds in favor of the Republican nominees are so great as to admit of no argument. They should all be elected.

It will gratify the public to learn that the new Trustees propose to end the rule of Dr. Lawlor at Glen Ellen as soon as possible. For the second time Governor Gage has found it necessary to deal with the affairs of the Home for the Feeble Minded sternly. The reorganized board promises to clean out the institution and keep it clean.

A New York man killed himself because his daughter insisted upon marrying a man older than he was. Poolish act; he should have countered by marrying a girl younger than his daughter. But some men never will grasp their opportunities.

It is admitted that President Roosevelt's anti-trust speeches killed the gigantic meat trust that was being formed. This proves that the President's opposition to the trusts is not a sham, as the Democrats would have us believe.

Wood has gone up to $16 a cord in Boston. How will this effect the price of wooden nutmegs?

The bribery scandal proves that St. Louis has outclassed Chicago in one thing at least.

REV. BRADFORD LEAVITT
CHARMS EBELL LADIES

AN ARTISTIC BLENDING OF GOWN AND PIANO PLAYING—CORRECTIONS FOR WIFE-BEATERS AND BAD BOYS.

BY BETTY MARTIN.

Miss Mabel Gray is certainly proving herself a very competent and charming president for Ebells Society, and no one can possibly quarrel with the literary and musical feasts provided.

This week alone addresses were made by two leading thinkers—one the Reverend Bradford Leavitt of San Francisco—that brilliant writer as well as popular preacher, who spoke on Tuesday before a large and appreciative audience of beautifully gowned and highly cultivated women.

His address was along the trend of modern thoughts and times, and as may be imagined, he introduced plenty of new ideas, which were discussed over the pine-apple punch later on.

As a rule, when men rather than a man talks to a body of women, he thinks he has to go about it in an altogether different way than when he talks to men, and the result is usually a flat failure; but Mr. Leavitt evidently is of the opinion that women's understanding doesn't differ materially from that of men, so he struck boldly out and made a most brilliant argument along original lines.

On Thursday Professor G. W. Shaw of Berkeley found time to give a whole lot of information on "Pure Food Products," and he, too, seemed to recognize the fact that logic and common sense could be appreciated keenly by the gentler sex.

Again, Parliamentary Law is receiving unwonted attention this year and every business meeting is opened by a short parliamentary drill, which isn't at all a bad idea.

However, in addition to all of these very solid attainments, Ebells is more than to the fore as a social factor, and has relegated every Tuesday afternoon to functions of that sort. If one wants to see pretty gowns and handsome, well-bred women, they're to be found at the club-rooms on Tuesdays. By the way, some of the maids they've been having there lately are horribly stupid, as well as intolerably ugly. Some of them positively take one's appetite away. One of them managed the other day to pour the better part of a cup of coffee over a lady's new gown and succeeded in entirely ruining it. Really, it was unpardonably awkward, even though the rooms were crowded. Here is a niche that the little maids in training at the Chabot Home ought to fit in capitolity. They would be dainty little waitresses, indeed, to have at the luncheons.

Speaking of pretty gowns, wasn't that a beauty worn by Miss Margaret Davis at the Priest-Rose concert, the other evening? It looked simply stunning, and everybody thought it was imported, but as I happen to know, it was an Oakland creation, though on a New York model, and those lovely figures were applied on the black silk mill.

A pity it was, too, that Miss Davis didn't receive those lovely chrysanthemums meant for her until so late. The audience always enjoys watching the flowers handed over the footlights, and really felt almost cheated out of its due to see how Miss Davis looked when her turn came. Mistakes will occur, though, and Henry Fine must certainly have overlooked that envelope bearing Miss Davis' name, even though everybody else noticed it dangling as he carried the flowers down the aisle, together with the bunch of sweet peas intended for Mrs. Fine.

All of the latter's old friends turned out to hear her and enjoyed her voice as of old. As one of them said, it was "Joy just to see her tilt back her head with that dainty little reticence nose of hers, and listen to her sing and writhle for all the world like a bird."

On Friday night Mrs. Fine gave a concert at Sacramento, with Miss Davis at the piano, and the audience was, I hear, a very enthusiastic one.

Several of the police judges of Kansas City, together with the Chief of Police, have declared themselves in favor of establishing a whipping post for bad boys and wife-beaters. They unanimously declare that one good sound whipping would work more reform than many months spent in jails and reformatories.

It would seem only fair to give a wife-beater a dose of his own medicine, just to see how he likes it. Bullies are cowards always, and can't endure physical pain, so that a good sound thrashing would be very apt to have a more salutary effect than even solitary confinement on a bread and water diet.

What to do with bad boys is another question and one not so easily to be decided. Moral suasion is usually out of the question, because the majority of them have the force of bad example always with them, which is certainly a most potent factor in their unmaking.

If a boy is sent to jail he is thrown into personal contact with the lowest

Cured of Asthma
After Years of Terrible Suffering.

Mary Josephine Bezy, Floyd Knob, Ind., writes: "After suffering untold agonies for 32 years from Asthma, I was cured by Schiffmann's Asthma Cure. I used to be so bad that I could not move without help, but I can now do all my own work." Another writes: "My little boy 7 years old has been a sufferer for several years, sometimes so bad that we could not hold him in bed, expecting any moment for him to breathe his last. Doctors did him no good and we had almost given up in despair, when through accident we heard of Schiffmann's Asthma Cure, tried it and it most instantly relieved him." Mrs. D. C. Harris, Elbow, P. and most abandoned men.
If given a hard whipping, would that create a change of heart?

Decidedly no. It would possibly keep him from repeating an offense, and it would certainly cost the State less money, but that is all.

The Chief of Police of Kansas City is also quoted as saying that "there isn't the slightest doubt in the world that boys are becoming worse as the years pass by," and he adds that it is "enough to make men pause and wonder if our punitive regulations are not wrong from beginning to end."

The statement that our boys are becoming worse will be taken with a grain of salt by the average person, but in regard to our punitive system there isn't much doubt but that there's a great deal out of gear with it.

The Federated Club women of the United States have set themselves the task of righting one end of it by the establishment of Juvenile Courts, where youthful criminals will be separated from those hardened by years of crime.

In New York City and the large cities of Massachusetts such courts are already established, and the women of California during the last Congress held at Los Angeles pledged themselves to the attainment of similar ends in our own great State.

The next session of the Legislature, no matter what its political hive, will have to encounter a committee of prominent club women with a bill for the establishment of a Juvenile Court here, and as the Justice of it will appear to every intelligent man, the passage of such a bill is a foregone conclusion.

LARGE DINNER GIVEN BY JOHN SANBORN

A very informal though pleasant dinner was given by John Sanborn at his home in Fruitvale on last Friday evening for the convenience of the speakers, and others officially connected with the Republican rally at Diamond Hall in Fruitvale. The occasion was the official opening of the campaign in the Fifty-first Assembly District, and as there was but one day's notice, some were unable to attend by reason of previous engagements, while it was impossible to get word to others in time. The following candidates and officials were in attendance: Judge Henry A. Melvin, District Attorney John Allen, Senator Joseph Knoland, Assemblyman N. K. Foss, County Clerk J. P. Cook, Auditor J. C. Elwing, Assessor John Mitchell, and G. S. Pierce, secretary County Central Committee, and Felton Taylor, secretary State League of Republican Clubs. The menu was as follows: Toké Points, Consomme Princesse, Celery, Olives, Sauterne, Pecans, Wintergreen Wafers, Striped Bass Broiled, Appollinaris, Filet of Beef, Mushrooms, French Peas, Pistache Punch, Squab Chicken Broiled, C. H. Mumm, Tomato Salad, Fancy Ices, Cakes, Fruit, Coffee.

GARBAGE COMPLAINT IS DEFECTIVE

Judge Stetson in the Police Court this morning gave his decision in the Joseph Folsie case and held that the defendant could not be convicted on the complaint upon which he was arrested, as it was defective. His Honor stated that he would be willing to hear the case again if a new complaint was issued. A charge of the offense is the instance of John P. Irish, under the ordinance that prohibits the owner of property to allow garbage to remain on his land. Folsie had given the Health Department permission to designate his land in West Oakland as a dumping ground for the scavengers pending some permanent dumping ground, and other West Oakland residents objected to the stench arising, and the arrest was the result.

FIRE THREATENS WOMEN'S GYMNASIUM AT UNIVERSITY.

BERKELEY, Oct. 4.—A fire in the grove on the east side of Hearst Hall was discovered at an early hour this morning, and had the slightest breeze been blowing it is very probable that the girls' gymnasium would have been entirely destroyed. The volunteer firemen under the direction of Fire Chief Joseph Kenney reached the spot and succeeded in extinguishing the fire before it reached Hearst Hall. The loss was insignificant.

It is thought that the fire originated from some belated passerby throwing his cigar stump into the dry leaves and foliage of the grove.

MONSTER CROWD
TO MEET PARDEE

GOVERNOR GAGE WILL INTRODUCE HIM AT THE PAVILION TONIGHT.

The Republican Alliance will have fully 200 uniformed men in line to escort Dr. George C. Pardee to the Mechanics' Pavilion tonight. Dr. Pardee will also be escorted by the Rough Riders Club of fifty horsemen. First Lieutenant C. F. Wells of Troop A, National Guard of California, will be in command and will have as assistance Lieutenants Edward Carr and Charles Fickert.

In the escorting column will be the Army and Navy Republican League of San Francisco, and other local organizations.

After the speaking the Alliance will attend in a body a banquet at which Governor Gage and Dr. Pardee will be guests of honor.

The meeting at the Pavilion promises to be a monster. Governor Gage will preside and George A. Knight will deliver a speech. Thomas D. Riordan, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, will call the meeting to order and introduce Governor Gage, who in turn will introduce Dr. Pardee.

Alden Anderson, the Republican nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, will be present and will make a short speech. Later on in the campaign his services as a speaker will be placed under the direction of the Republican State Central Committee. It is understood that he will visit Los Angeles, San Diego and other southern counties.

REPUBLICAN ENTHUSIASM TO WAKE ALAMEDA.

The Republican county campaign will be opened in Alameda tonight with a rousing meeting at the Wigwam in the Neptune gardens. There will be a display of fireworks and some anvil thrills.

Dr. C. L. Tisdale will preside. The principal speaker of the evening will be Hon. Joseph R. Knowland, nominee for State Senator, but all the county candidates will be present and deliver short talks. The meeting is to be devoted wholly to the interests of the local Republican candidates, though the usual appeals will be made to stand by the State ticket.

The demonstration promises to be an enthusiastic one. It will be the first Republican meeting to be held in Alameda during this campaign, and as such will bring a big turnout of the Republican voters.

SWEDISH CLUB.
At a meeting held last night, the Swedish Club endorsed the entire Republican ticket.

DODGE WILL SPEAK.
C. G. Dodge will speak at the Republican meeting at Fruitvale tonight.

ALAMEDA TRUSTEES
FIX THE TAX LEVY.

ALAMEDA, Oct. 4.—The City Trustees met last night, and after several hours of discussion set the tax levy at $1.25, against $1.20 of last year. The five cents increase is due to the large amount of bonds that have to be redeemed this year. Last year but $18,500 of bonds were redeemed, while this year there is $38,995, an increase of $20,495, to be raised. Of this amount only $8,500 are school bonds. The assessed valuation of personal and real property for this year amounts to $11,831,322. The library and high school funds were given a slight increase this year.

WHAT COAL BARONS
SAY OF STRIKE

THEY SEE NO CHANCE TO SETTLE THE CONTEST WITH JOHN MITCHELL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The presidents of the anthracite coal roads arrived here from Washington on a special train today. E. B. Thomas, chairman of the Board of the Erie Railroad Company, who represented that company at the conference with President Roosevelt at Washington, said today:

"There is nothing to add to my statement at Washington yesterday in respect to the proposition made by us that in case we cannot satisfactorily adjust any grievances with our own employees it shall be referred to the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas in the district in which the colliery is situated for final determination."

President Truesdale of the Lackawanna road had nothing to add to the statement submitted by him to the President at Washington yesterday. He believed, he said, that it was not the intention of the authorities to call out the Federal troops.

President Fowler of the New York, Ontario and Western road said: "It is not unlikely that the public may jump at the conclusion that Mr. Mitchell offered to resume operations immediately in order that the suffering public might be relieved at once. I think it worth while to call attention to the fact that Mitchell offered at yesterday's conference to make an agreement, for not less than one year, nor more than five years, as may be mutually determined."

MEDDLER HAS GOOD THINGS TO TELL ABOUT SOCIAL LEADERS.

MANY SOCIAL AFFAIRS THIS WEEK.

What with Mrs. James G. Allen's big tea, Mrs. Thomas Coghill's euchre party, the reception at Ebells, Mrs. Henry Rosenfeld's luncheon and card party across the bay, Mrs. R. G. Brown's tea this afternoon, Florence Hayden's tea on Friday, Mrs. Coghill's card party, and the interesting engagements of Mabel Craft, Hattie Kimble and Helen Higby, to discuss this week has been quite an exciting one or us.

HATTIE KIMBLE'S IMMENSE SOLITAIRE.

While Hattie Kimble's engagement to Joe Chanslor was not such a surprise, there is just as much interest in the fact that she is a very pretty girl, especially in pale pink gowns and hats, and is entirely different from her younger sister, Mrs. Charlie Parcells, who enthralls over everything great and small, while Hattie is calm and most retiring. Although Mr. Chanslor has been living across the bay for some months, he has, in reality been spending most of his days and evenings at the cozy home of the Parcells, where Hattie has been summering, and every one who has met him pronounces him a charming fellow.

Her engagement ring is simply immense, a beauty of a solitaire, and he has given her another one, of rubies and diamonds, several handsome diamond pins and loads of other things. Elsie Kimble, who, after being finished at school in New York, spent the summer in Europe, met the Charlie Parcells in St. Louis on their way home, and returned with them in order to be maid of honor at her sister's wedding, on the twelfth of next month.

Hattie hasn't decided whether she will have bridesmaids or not, but the wedding, to take place at the Kimble home on Ingraham street, in Los Angeles, will be witnessed only by relatives, a big reception to follow. The groom's brother, Walter Chanslor, who is to act as best man, will, himself, become a bridegroom on the 26th of the month, and the Joe Chanslors are to go on with him for the wedding in their private car. He is to marry a Southern belle, Amabee Howell, of North Carolina.

Then Hattie and her husband, (he is as light as she is dark) will go on to New York, and, after staying there a while, return here to make their home at the Palace for some months. So few people have really soft-toned and likeable voices, that the charming voice and pretty smile of Hattie Kimble is very noticeable. I suppose the Charlie Parcells will go to Los Angeles for the wedding, too. They returned only Sunday from a two months' trip to New York, Washington, Pittsburg, and I don't know how many other places, stopping off at Denver and Los Angeles. They came out on the train with George De Long, (who has left the Florodora company, in New York, to visit his mother across the bay, and has had chills and fever ever since his arrival), his great friend, Fred Greenwood, and Charlie Earl, so they had a very jolly trip home.

HELEN HIGBY A COMING BRIDE.

Society over in Alameda is especially interested in the engagement of Helen Higby and William Vills, who is editor of the "New York Fruit and Trade Journal." The bride-elect has been in the East for some time, studying dramatic art at the New England Conservatory of Music and Art, and, later at the Frohman School of Acting, but has now returned. Her father, the late William Higby, of Coluvaras county, served three terms in Congress and figured largely in the negotiations over the purchase of Alaska. The engagement was announced at a luncheon given at the Palace hotel, by Mrs. Herbert Dunersa, of Boston.

SHE'S NOT PRETTY BUT FASCINATING.

Mrs. Allen's home was simply packed to the doors between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock on Wednesday, and the whole affair was most successful. Mrs. Allen decorated the house very prettily with yellow flowers in the drawing room, pink ones in the library and red in the dining room. The guests of honor, Mrs. Albert Otis, Mrs. George Augar, and Nannie Jones, of Baltimore, are being entertained quite a lot, and are very popular.

Miss Jones isn't at all pretty, but she is fascinating, and every one is enthusiastic over her. The receiving list was a long one. Mrs. Egbert Stone, Harriet Hall, Minnie Dyer, Mrs. Francis Danwooly, Mrs. Arthur Crellin, Mrs. Bob Knight, Mrs. Acker, Mrs. Will Meek, Mrs. Harry Meek, Mrs. Fred Stratton, Mrs. Allen Babcock and Mrs. Coghill being among the twenty-eight or thirty who received.

GETS GIFTS OF JEWELRY YET WON THE PRIZE.

Mrs. Henry Rosenfeld's luncheon and card party to the same crowd that she always entertains, was even more elaborate than usual. The luncheon table at the Grill was decorated with a beautiful center-piece of pink and white roses, and the pen-and-ink name cards were very odd and pretty indeed. The pen sketches were of little coons doing cake walks and pigeons, their clothes being made of pieces of silk and velvet glued on to the cards. After luncheon the party went to Mrs. Rosenfeld's apartments at the Lick house, where she has five or six rooms, and were joined by Mrs. Ned Howard, Mrs. Bush Fennell of San Francisco, Emma Mahoney, Mrs. Vernon Waldron, Mrs. Charles Lovell and some others for cards. Mrs. Frank Watson winning the first prize, a gold laurel wreath pin, set with five or six pearls, and Carrie Nicholson winning the consolation, a lovely red enamelled pin, set with fresh-water pearls. Some of us thought it too bad of Carrie Nicholson to win the prize, because Mrs. Rosenfeld is always giving her such lovely jewelry, anyhow. Mrs. Rosenfeld's luncheon guests were: Bertha and May Young, Mrs. John L. Howard, Mrs. Cotton, Mrs. Edward Engs, Mrs. Wickham Havens, Carrie and Belle Nicholson, Mrs. Albert Long, Mrs. Lou Allender, Mrs. Jack Hampton, Mrs. Felton Taylor, Mrs. Proctor, and Louise Earl of San Francisco.

PEOPLE WHO READ OUIDA'S "FILTHY BOOKS."

The news that Ouida, the novelist, who has always traded upon her English nationality, never missing an opportunity to slur America and Americans, was born in this country will be received with general surprise. Biographical encyclopaedias have been mysteriously silent on the subject of the writer's place of nativity, which I have learned, was a plantation near Natchez, Mississippi. Her family name was Gliddon. She was one of three children, and the widow of her older brother now keeps a boarding house in Brooklyn.

Apocryph of her dislike for her native land, a story is recalled of her encounter with the late Mrs. Bigelow, wife of our former minister to France, a woman noted for her ready wit. Mrs. Bigelow, a reader of Ouida's books, was once in Florence, where Ouida resides, and resolved to call and pay homage to her talent. On her arrival she was kept waiting while a servant disappeared with her card, returning, after some time, with the information that Ouida was not at home. A strident voice was heard shrieking over the stairs, "Tell Mrs. Bigelow that I never receive Americans." "You don't, eh?" shouted back the irrepressible Mrs. Bigelow. "Well, you ought to, for they are the only people who read your filthy books!"

WILL SEE EVERYTHING WORTH THE SEEING.

On Saturday of next week Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams and Muriel Steele, also leave for the East, stopping en route at Chicago for three or four days. They have engaged apartments at the Waldorf-Astoria, and the most desirable table in the grill room there, and expect to take in all the new plays and see everything worth seeing, for a month or so.

MISS TAFT, BRIDESMAID, AND HER STUNNING GOWNS.

Florence Hayden's tea for her cousin, Celia Seymore, of Brooklyn, who has been spending the summer with the Haydens, was for the youngest set only, about a hundred cards having been sent out. Christie Taft, Bessie Center of San Francisco, Ruth Knowles, Gertrude Allen, Elsie Marwedel, and Bessie Palmer assisted in receiving, and all looked very well, especially Christie Taft, who has returned with some stunning gowns. Florence hasn't chosen her bridesmaids yet, although of course we all know that Christie will be one of them, and all she has as yet decided upon is that the wedding will take place at St. Paul's in November.

WHERE WILL SIAMESE PRINCE BE REGALED?

The workmen on the renovated White House having struck, it is more than probable that the completion of the building will be delayed some weeks. This is rather embarrassing, as the crown prince of Siam arrived in America October 3, and has planned to spend five days in Washington. There will necessarily be an official entertainment of some kind, but it will be impossible to give it in the White House, and the temporary building on Lafayette Square would hardly do. If some patriotic Washingtonian, with a big house, would offer the use of his home for a night to the President, it would solve the difficulty and enable the President to suitably entertain the Crown Prince, as it is obviously impossible for the President to give a state dinner at a hotel.

SAD HOME-COMING FROM THE HAGUE.

Senator William Stewart is expected to arrive in Oakland very shortly to take his wife's body East, and he will be accompanied by his daughter, Mabel Stewart Payson, and Lieutenant Payson, who have a charming flat on Van Ness avenue, fairly overflowing with rare curios and lovely tapestries, and are expecting to obtain a two or three months' leave of absence in order to go East. I believe that Senator Stewart's grandson, young Hooker, is quite seriously ill in Manila, and his wife, who was Polly Condit-Smith, rushed out here this week, sailing for Manila with General Miles and party on the Thomas, the day after her arrival in San Francisco.

Engagements, Receptions and Card Parties That Are Interesting the Smart Set--Plans Are Made For the Future Weddings.

MRS. COGHILL'S EUCHRE PARTY.

Mrs. Coghill's big five-handed euchre party on Thursday was quite as delightful as all the pleasantly informal affairs that little hostess gives, and the prizes were very pretty. Mrs. Charles E. Palmer, Mrs. Frank Watson, who, by the way, seems to be winning more than her share this week, and Miss Katherine Chairs, carrying them home. There was no attempt at elaborate decoration, just a few red and yellow cut flowers and Woodwardia fern being placed about the drawing room and library. The ninety or a hundred guests were all from the married set, young and old, the only unmarried guests there being Violet and Anita Whittey, Bessie McNear, Viva Nicholson, Nannie Jones, Laura Prather, Amy McKee, Annie Miller, Louise and Emma Mahoney and Cella Seymour.

CITY EDITOR TYLER PRESIDENT'S GRANDSON.

Andy Lawrence, who, about ten years ago, was a member of the Tribune staff, and later became city editor of the Examiner, has run out from Chicago on a hurried visit, having been called to San Francisco by the illness of a relative. When Will Hearst, established the Chicago American, he chose Andy Lawrence for the managing editor, and the young Californian, who is a man of great energy and shrewdness, has become very successful. Speaking of newspaper men, reminds me that James Tyler, city editor of the Examiner, is a grandson of John Tyler, the tenth President of the United States, although the men who have worked with him for years have only recently learned that fact. As a city editor, Mr. Tyler has been very successful, and no man holding that position has been more popular with the entire staff of the Examiner.

There are so many paragraphs of special interest to Oaklanders in this morning's issue of Town Talk, that for lack of space I'll have to keep some of them for next week. Among other things The Saunterer speaks of Andy Lawrence and of George De Long, both of whom I've already spoken of today. He says: "Mr. A. M. Lawrence, formerly managing editor of the Examiner and now of Hearst's Chicago American, came to the city early this week, having been called hither on account of illness in his wife's family. Notwithstanding the vigorous fight that was made against the American by the other Chicago dailies when Hearst invaded that field, it made rapid progress from the start, and is now said to have a circulation of nearly half a million. I hear that Hearst has completed arrangements for the launching of a daily in Boston."

MRS. FRED MORSE'S CARD PARTY.

The second of a series of card parties being given by Mrs. Fred Morse, which took place last Saturday, was as successful as the first, and the fifty or more guests were all gowned in new autumn hats and frocks. Mrs. Morse looked well in a stunning affair of white broadcloth, appliqued in diamond-shaped pieces of lace. During the afternoon many of the girls present went next door to St. Paul's for half an hour, to see Nettie Yale married to Milton Bailey. The Baileys are, by the way, spending their honeymoon in Seattle, Portland and British Columbia, and won't be home until the first of November. Mrs. George Bornemann, Mrs. William High and Mrs. Ray Kitchener won the prizes at Mrs. Morse's and some of her guests were Mrs. A. S. Larkey, Mrs. Oscar Luning, Mrs. Charles Egbert, Mrs. H. P. Carleton, Mrs. Fred Dallam, Mrs. Warren Olney, Jr., Evelyn Craig, Mrs. Seth Mann, Mabel and Bessie Gray.

KIND OF STUFF WHICH KEEPS UP PARTY SERIES.

Mrs. Newton Koser and her younger sister, Mrs. Vernon Waldron, who are also giving a series of card parties, gave their second one on Monday. Some people I know start bravely out to give series of luncheons, informal teas and card parties, but, after the first or second they stop, but Mrs. Morse, Mrs. Koser and Mrs. Waldron seem to be made of different stuff. Mrs. Mailer Seales, Mrs. Fred Morse and Bertha Young won the prizes on Monday, and among the twenty-five guests I noticed particularly Mrs. Howard and her sisters, May and Bertha Young and Mrs. Dredge, Edith Gaskill and Jean Chiff.

WILL BE AT HOME THURSDAYS IN BERKELEY.

Mrs. Alfred Cameron, nee Catton, has changed her home from 1715 Bonte avenue to Channing Way and Fulton street, Berkeley, and will be at home on Thursdays.

RECOVERING TO SAIL AROUND THE WORLD.

Mrs. Frank Norris, who has been so ill at a hospital across the bay, is now recovering from an operation for appendicitis very nicely, and will soon be able to accompany her clever young husband around the world.

DEAR LITTLE ROSE-COLORED HEARTS.

Mrs. John Adams entertained informally at luncheon during the week, her table decorations being pink roses and candelabra, and the favors dear little rose-colored hearts. Those at table were Marietta Havens, Mrs. Walter Henry, Mrs. Charles Kellogg,

Mr. and Mrs. Scupham, Blanche Powell, the hostess and her little girl.

VISITING MRS. GAMBLE DOWN IN TUCSON.

Helen Lobman, whose return to the East and Europe, has been delayed, and who has been stopping with Bessie McNear, left on Sunday for Tucson, Arizona, where she is visiting Mrs. James Gamble, who was Carrie Ritter, of this city.

DELEGATE AS DAUGHTER OF THE CONFEDERACY.

Mrs. Sydney Van Wyck left for Los Angeles on Thursday, going as a delegate of the Jefferson Davis Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy. She, together with Miss Van Wyck and Citrenden Van Wyck, have taken apartments at the hotel on Van Ness avenue, next to St. Luke's Church, turning over their Webster-street home to the Sydney Van Wycks, Jr., of this city.

SOCIAL HONORS FOR THE JACK JOHNSTONS.

Besides the dinner given the Jack Johnstons by Charles Greenfield, that newly-wedded pair were also, upon their return from Lake Tahoe, the honored guests at dinners given by Pearl Landers, who will visit them in Los Angeles before her marriage in April; and by Pearl Landers' sister, Mrs. Fred Tallant. The decorations at Landers' dinner were of Cecil Bruner roses and maiden-hair, and her guests were, besides the honored pair, Elsie Cook, Charles Greenfield, Margaret Wilson, Bernice Drown, Mabel Pringle, Ed Sessions, Walter Landers, Mr. Sanford of Berkeley, and Harry Van Dyke. Mrs. Tallant's guests were Charlotte Ellinwood, Pearl Landers, Elsie Cook and Charles Greenfield, of course, Mabel Landers, Walter Landers and Sydney Pringle.

GEORGE DE LONG AND ANDREW LAWRENCE.

There are so many paragraphs of special interest to Oaklanders in this morning's issue of Town Talk, that for lack of space I'll have to keep some of them for next week. Among other things The Saunterer speaks of Andy Lawrence and of George De Long, both of whom I've already spoken of today. He says: "Mr. A. M. Lawrence, formerly managing editor of the Examiner and now of Hearst's Chicago American, came to the city early this week, having been called hither on account of illness in his wife's family. Notwithstanding the vigorous fight that was made against the American by the other Chicago dailies when Hearst invaded that field, it made rapid progress from the start, and is now said to have a circulation of nearly half a million. I hear that Hearst has completed arrangements for the launching of a daily in Boston."

Of George De Long he says: "George De Long is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Long, in this city. When Senator Frank De Long owned the great Novata Rancho a few years ago, George was much sought after in society, and even when fickle fortune deprived the family of wealth he was still invited everywhere. But George is full of energy and enterprise and he went on the stage. He was one of the double sextet in Florodora's first production. The fact that these young men were gentlemen of birth and breeding had more to do with the phenomenal success of the renowned sextet than they were given credit for. George De Long acted, moved, sang and wore his clothes better than any of them. The past season he has had an excellent part in 'The Messenger Boy,' the great English success at Daly's. His next season's engagement is still better and does not require his being in New York until January, giving him opportunity for his long deferred visit to his family."

Florence De Long is, by the way, a very attractive little brunette, but had not made her debut when the famerly lost every thing, and has never gone out at all. She has some very staunch friends over in Alameda, and spends a lot of time with them.

The little Longs have just recovered from the whooping cough, but are now entirely well. It is the first illness which these carefully reared children have ever had.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lawrence Requa have given up the Irving Lundborg house, which they occupied for some time, and have taken the Martin house, 484 Prospect street, for three years. The inside of the house has been thoroughly renovated and charmingly papered and fitted up. It is a very large, commodious house. The Irving Lundborgs will occupy their home again this winter. They have been boarding for a year with the elder Lundborgs across the bay.

MOVING OVER TO SWELL ST. DUNSTAN'S.

The William J. Landers, who have been entertaining the Jack Johnstons until yesterday, when they left for their new home in Los Angeles, will, today, give up the Avery McCarthy house at 2400 Broadway, which they have been occupying for the past two seasons, and, this afternoon, will take their belongings to apartments at the swell St. Dunstan's on Van Ness avenue, where they are to spend the winter.

STRINGS TO HIS BOW BEAUX ON HIS STRING.

Marietta Havens, who has traveled in Europe, and has been East several times, is planning to extend her journeyings to the Hawaiian Islands, and will be the guest of her friend, May Young, at Honolulu, some time this winter.

Marietta's blonde prettiness will be greatly admired at the Islands, and I'll wager she returns engaged to some dashing lieutenant or dark-eyed planter, that is, unless a certain fair-haired fellow I know doesn't pin her down to a promise before she goes away. Of all the young men at Honolulu none is in such demand in society or so popular with the girls and their mothers as Walter Dillingham, son of the largest shareholder in the Oahu Railway, and principal owner of some of Hawaii's largest sugar plantations. He is young, but shrewd beyond his years, for he divides his attentions with a precision that saves him from having his intentions demanded by a stern parent. He is unusually handsome, and, besides good looks, has a large share of that something called "magnetism." There are two girls between whom Walter Dillingham's attentions have been divided equally, Nellie Kitchen and Guardie Macfarlane, who often spends some weeks here with relatives. The girls are warm friends and there is no hint of jealousy, although each is distinguished by the young man's attentions. He takes one in his high cart to polo in the afternoon and the other to the theater in the evening, and so on, until at last, having puzzled Honolulu to the point of distraction, he arouses people to a further agony of conjecture by adding a third belle to his list in the person of Lily Spreckels. A house party at his country place, to which the guests were conveyed in a special car, was given by young Dillingham in honor of Lily Spreckels; and many other attentions showered upon her have diverted conjecture as to his matrimonial intentions into a third channel.

"Which?" is the question agitating Honolulu. "Which?" may be the question agitating the mind of Walter Dillingham. Certainly it is agitating three fair damsels.

Mrs. Oscar Long about to leave for Washington. Quite a number of people were at Highlands Wednesday—indeed it was quite like a tea. There will only be a few Wednesdays more before Mrs. Long leaves again for Washington, so we are all hastening to pay our devoirs and to see more of this sweet woman before her departure for her new home. She will probably leave about the middle of October or at the end of the month, as the new house which is building for the occupancy of the Longs is not quite finished. Mrs. Long will have a brilliant time socially in Washington this winter, as she is very popular and so bright and winning. Madame la Bavarde said such sweet things regarding the charming gown which Mrs. Long wore at the Landers' wedding—and also spoke particularly of her happy face.

We are going to miss General and Mrs. Long, particularly this winter. They were such favorite guests for dinners. General Long was so busy and so absolutely devoted to his work and worked so hard early and late, during the war, that we did not see as much of him as we should have liked, still we managed to induce him to look at the flesh-pots occasionally. General Long is very popular in Washington, where he belongs to the fashionable army and navy club. Mrs. Long will be a great help to him in his career there, as she was here, for she is a clever and accomplished hostess.

The little Longs have just recovered from the whooping cough, but are now entirely well. It is the first illness which these carefully reared children have ever had.

AN EPIDEMIC OF ENGAGEMENTS.

What a perfect epidemic there is of Oakland engagements. It began with Rachel Vrooman, continued with Ruth Dunham, Lucy Brown and Ella Goodall, and has climaxed this week with Mabel Craft and Harriet Kimble. The engagement of Miss Kimble was not such a great surprise, as it was known to some of her intimate friends. She is marrying a very wealthy Los Angeles man, but they will live in San Francisco this winter at the Palace Hotel.

The engagement of Miss Craft and Mr. Deering was a great surprise, as it is a highly romantic affair—almost a case of love at first sight, I understand. They are being literally showered with congratulations and engagement gifts, and their friends are perfectly delighted, the two seeming to be so admirably suited to each other. Mr. Deering is a gentleman of a type none too common now, courtly, polished, universally respected, successful and of splendid family connections. He has a great many friends in Oakland in the married set. The wedding will be a very large one, I understand—a church ceremony, followed by a reception at Miss Craft's home. Like the Hayden-Taft and the Kimble wedding it will be a November event.

MISS VROOMAN'S WEDDING.

Cards are out for the wedding and reception of Miss Rachel Vrooman and Mr. William Edward Colby. Only a few intimate friends are asked for the ceremony, which takes place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Henry Vrooman, at 328 Boulevard Terrace, at three o'clock on the eighteenth of October, which is Saturday—the fashionable day. Several hundred friends are asked to the reception which is to follow at four o'clock. I have not yet heard who the bride is to have for her attendants, but presume that her youngest sister, Beatrice, will be one of them. Certainly Rachel Vrooman will make a stunning bride, for she is a stunning girl. She is also a very brilliant one and a good talker. It amuses me to see how all these lawyers and doctors in the recently announced engagements have selected brilliant women for their wives—women who are good talkers and will make attractive hostesses, instead of the sweet, simpering girls who used to be the ideal in wives. It is really very clever of these gentlemen, and I extol their taste.

MRS. HAYES TO ENTERTAIN.

Mrs. Lucie May Hayes will give a dinner in honor of Miss Craft and Mr. Deering at her home on Eleventh street next Friday night. Later Mrs. Hayes will entertain at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Munn, who is to hear from the East, and who is staying at the Knickerbocker in San Francisco.

STAMP PRIZES GO TO ALAMEDA COUNTY.

In the Philatelic exhibition which has recently been attracting attention at the Mechanics' Institute in San Francisco, both prizes for the ladies who exhibited came to this side of the bay. Miss Palache of Berkeley won the first prize, and Mrs. Lucie May Hayes the second, on a collection which is not large but exceedingly discriminating.

PREPARATIONS FOR CLARE TUCKER WILLIAMS' WEDDING.

Among the winter brides none is looking more radiant than Mrs. Clare Tucker Williams, whose engagement to Ned Brayton was recently announced. The marriage will take place sometime in December, and every one is wishing the couple well.

DEPARTURES AND RETURNS FROM EUROPE.

Mrs. Gus Bray is expected home from Europe soon after a stay of several months, during which she has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Butters. She will be eagerly welcomed again to the Piedmont set, which has missed her pretty face and sweet manner very much. Mrs. W. B. Hopkins who with her husband has been living under the same roof with the Brays, expects to leave for Europe in October, to remain away about four months. She will go with Mrs. Leslie Wright and two other women friends, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Wright have been at the Hotel Rafael all summer and are great friends. Mrs. Leslie Wright, who is the twin brother and fac-simile in personal appearance of Howard Wright of Oakland, has gone to New York, where he will establish himself in business. On her return from Europe Mrs. Wright will remain in New York, where she will make her home.

In spite of rumors to the contrary, Mrs. Will Henshaw and Miss Allie Grimes are not thinking of coming home, and they made no date for their departure across the Atlantic. They were at last accounts in Venice, viewing the crumbling palaces and having a fine time.

Mrs. Will Crocker is expected back from Europe the first of November. She went over on a flying trip to put her children at school.

The M. H. de Youngs are expected back any day. They are bringing back their children and will probably spend the winter in California, partially on account of the precarious health of Mrs. de Young's mother, Mrs. Deane. But I cannot think that the de Youngs will ever spend much time again in California. They have too good a time abroad. They are much feted and entertained there, and enjoy it very much.

SAD DEATH OF MR. THOMAS MAGEE SR.

The sad death of Mr. Thomas Magee Sr. throws into mourning a large family contingent, the Hushes, Mrs. Frederick Magee, which involves the Moons, and Mrs. Walter Magee, whose mother, Mrs. Shaw, was in mourning for her husband as it was. It will also postpone the departure for the East of Miss Florence Hush and Mrs. Thomas Magee Jr., though Miss Hush will certainly go later and Mrs. Magee probably also. Mr. Magee seemed such a robust man that we could scarcely believe the news. With his wife he only recently returned from a European tour. He died in Santa Barbara, where his romantic marriage took place. His charming young widow was Miss Helen Curtis, and he leaves a little daughter—the only daughter he ever had, after all those sons. Mr. Magee was very widely respected by every one and loved by all who knew him well. He was not an old man, either, and should have lived many more years. Mrs. Magee's family connection includes the Curtises, the O'Sullivans and the Cowles, so altogether this death will make quite a break in the social ranks.

People are wondering who the pretty girl is that John Jordan had with him one evening last week. They were dashing across country, on the Alameda side, both on fine horses, the same style of saddle, but in the gloaming the fleeting glimpse was not enough to make one quite positive as to who she is, but I have my suspicions and John looks a very happy man.

CARD CLUBS STARTING UP PHOENIX-LIKE.

Myriads of card clubs are starting up, many of them on lines laid out last winter—many of them new ones. There is a Sixty-three Club, the new and fashionable game; the Clich Club, which has a respectable age, is revived again, as well as a whist club in East Oakland, and a euchre club, which has been named The Clinton Club. The Cup and Saucer Club will live on, and the Kate Wheelock Club, and Cosmos, of course.

MEDDLER IRRESISTIBLE IN A NEW HAT.

Well, I must try on my new hat for Mrs. Brown's tea now, the hours are for 4 to 6, but one always sees so many stunning gowns at the Browns' teas, that I like to arrive there early and take them in. I believe there are to be about a hundred guests, all old friends of Mrs. Albert Otis and Mrs. Geo. Augar, for whom the affair is given. Mrs. Brown will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Lillian Brown Everetts and Florence, of course, while the others in line are to be Mrs. A. Lowndes Scott, Mrs. Allen Babcock, Mrs. William Letts Oliver, Minnie Dyer, Mrs. Kales, Mrs. Edson Adams, Mrs. George Greenwood, Nellie Chabot, Hattie Hall, Emma Farrier, Bertha Wilcox, Ruth Kales, Carolyn and Anita Oliver and Cordelle Bishop. Will tell you all the gossip I hear next time, in the meanwhile, I'm yours in a rush,

THE MEDDLER, NATIVE DAUGHTERS.

Grand President N. D. G. W. Miss Eliza D. Keith, Grand Secretary Miss Laura J. Frakes, Miss Alpha Martin, Miss Victoria Orr, of San Francisco, and Miss B. A. Downey, of Oakland, went to San Mateo on Wednesday, Sept. 30th, to assist in a benefit entertainment given by Monte Robles Parlor, N. D. G. W., of that place. A fine program was given to a crowded house, after which dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Ice cream and cake were served in the hall during the evening. Mrs. K. Van Ee, of San Francisco, was pianist of the evening. The evening's entertainment was a grand success in every way, and Monte Robles Parlor receives a neat little benefit, which is due to the efforts of the members and the Grand Secretary, Miss Laura J. Frakes, assisted by Mrs. P. A. Downey and Miss Alpha Martin.

MISS KIMBLE ENGAGED.

An engagement of interest to Oakland as well as Los Angeles and San Francisco people is the announcement of the approaching wedding of Miss Hattie Kimble, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Kimble, to Joseph Anderson Chanslor, son of Mr. John Chanslor of Los Angeles. Miss Kimble, who her home is at present in Los Angeles, has always been identified with Oakland, the Henshaw home on Thirteenth and Jackson streets having been the Kimble home for some years, and Miss Kimble has spent the entire summer in Oakland as the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. B. Parcells, on Vernon street. She is a girl of fine character and splendid ability, and has numerous friends who are showering good wishes upon her.

Mr. Chanslor is at present a resident of San Francisco, but he claims Los Angeles as his home. He is a member of the firm of Chanslor & Canfield, the oil magnates.

No date has been set for the wedding, but Miss Kimble leaves for Los Angeles in a fortnight, and the marriage will be solemnized next month in the Southern city. Following the wedding the young people will enjoy an extensive Eastern trip, and will then return to San Francisco, where their future home will be.

CLUB TO RE-ORGANIZE.

The Thursday Afternoon Club, which was to have met Thursday at the residence of Mrs. W. H. Creed, postponed the meeting until next Thursday, when the members will reorganize for the winter.

THE NO-NAME CLUB.

The No-Name Card Club met Thursday evening for the first time this season, at the residence of Miss Ethel Haas, on Thirty-fourth street. After several games of euchre and the awarding of the handsome prizes the guests were ushered into the hostess' den, where supper awaited. Everything was Chinese, from the lanterns hanging over the tables to the "chopsticks" and rice. A gorgeous broadcloth covered the center of the round table, and on it were all kinds of Chinese dainties. A tiny individual service was at each place. The name-cards were small red teacups. The decorations throughout the house were Chinese, as were also the tally cards and peace. The supper was kept on tiny red and green lanterns surrounded by a yellow bird. The members of the club who enjoyed Miss Haas' hos-

TODAY'S NEWS LETTER.

The excellence of the San Francisco News Letter is proverbial, but today's News Letter is certainly good. It is full of bright, interesting, well written matter. There is an excellent story by W. O. REPUBLICANS WILL WIN
AT NOVEMBER ELECTION.

Mistakes Made by the Democrats—Labor Complications—Legislative Nominees—Busy Times at the State Headquarters.

BY GEORGE F. HATTON.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)

The San Mateo county convention held at Redwood City on Wednesday, the work of framing tickets was ended by the Republican party. In every part of the State, the candidates are now before the people and between now and November 4th some hurricane campaigning will be done all along the line.

With the labor movement an unknown quantity, it is dangerous to presage what the sectional results will be but as regards the general outcome it is now well conceded that this year is to be signalized by another great Republican victory. The election of Dr. Pardee and the entire State ticket with the possible exception of the Third Equalization District is confidently expected, and the only question discussed is what the majorities will be. It is true that Franklin Lane has been making considerable headway among the Union votes, but this will be offset in the very near future, for it is known that Governor Gage intends to take the stump in Pardee's interests and will be heard at some of the principal centers. The Democrats are very much upset at this news, for they know that the foundation they have been so industriously piling up for their nominee will be swept away as soon as Gage's appeal is made to the workmen. The Governor has greater influence over the toilers today than any other man in the State, and when he urges them to cast their votes for Pardee it will mean thousands of additional ballots for the head of the Republican ticket.

Some early straws are already in evidence as to how the political breezes are blowing. Even money that Pardee will be elected is freely offered here without any takers, the only bet the Democrats can be induced to make being that Lane will carry San Francisco by 7,500. Even if he does, there is no way of figuring out victory for him, for the fact that was denied official endorsement by the Labor party means that he is not accepted as the champion of that element, and here the rank and file of the Unionists will vote to suit themselves.

Democratic Errors.

The Democrats, too, in their frantic effort to ally the strength of the Labor party to their own waning cause have overreached themselves and are about to suffer in consequence. It is now being made public in various parts of the State that many of the Union candidates that the Democrats have endorsed are Republicans and always have been. The result of this will be that the Simon-pure Democrats will not vote for the nominees thus thrust upon them and in all probability will teach their party manipulators a sharp lesson by supporting the Republican candidate and in that way strike a blow at the heart of the schism that has sprung up in their camp.

In San Francisco the fusionists did their work so coarsely that the Democratic Municipal Convention this week refused to accept some of the Republican Union Labor candidates they were asked to put upon their ticket, and although an open rupture was avoided, some very sore spots resulted. As election day draws near it in truth becomes apparent that this Labor-Democratic consolidation is not as dangerous as has been preached, for the stalwart Republicans in the labor ranks—and there are thousands of them—refuse to be hitched up with Democratic running mates, while, on the other hand, the loyal party Democrats object to being asked to vote for Republicans simply because they are the candidate of the labor movement.

The outcome of this will be that with the exception of those who are swayed by agitators, the labor vote is likely to be split up well between the Republican, Democratic and Union candidates, for that its ballots will be cast as a unit is not seemingly out of the question. There is a little mix-up, too, in the camps of the toilers that will cause troubles right under their own flags, so all things considered, the outlook is much brighter for the Republican cause than some people are willing to concede.

A Labor Complication.

The United Labor party is one of the causes of dispute. This movement is a direct descendant of the Kearney sand lot agitation, for it was formed in those days, and when Kearney later on deserted it and became a Greenbacker there were enough interested in it to carry it along, and it has survived until this day. Four years ago it had a State ticket in the field, and as it polled the necessary three per cent vote, its nominees were entitled to a place upon the ticket this year, and their names will appear with those of the Republican and Democratic candidates.

Now here is where the joker comes in. The Union Labor party—which can be specified as the Schmitz movement—did not nominate a State ticket, and hence will have no names upon the official ballots presented to the voters. Many a working man seeing the caption "United Labor" will jump at the conclusion that this is the organization he wants to help along, and the result anticipated is that the "United" will get lots of votes intended for the Unionists. The leaders of the United movement are very happy over this state of affairs and say that it means that their ticket will poll 20,000 votes, while the Unionists are correspondingly sad. The line drawn between the two organizations is that the United Labor party recognizes non-Union as well as Union labor, while the Union Labor movement, as its name implies, speaks for only members of recognized Unions or federations.

That this conflict in the Labor camp will mean additional support for the Republican ticket is only reasonable, for as soon as the labor forces start breaking up it is but reasonable to figure that the bulk of them will seek the Republican fold that has always furnished protection to their interests. The Union people are trying to discredit the United movement as far as they can without hurting themselves, and that the relations between the two organizations are somewhat strained is evidenced in many ways.

Legislative Nominees.

Harking back to the termination of the county conventions it is well to note that the entire legislative ticket is now in the field. Busy at Headquarters.

There are lively times at the rooms of the Republican State Central Committee at the Palace Hotel. A full clerical force is hard at work getting out the preliminary campaign literature while Chairman Cutter, Secretary Snook and Assistant Secretary Jake Steppacher have been busy employed for the past few days arranging the itineraries of the stump speakers. This work of planning the routes for the orators is not as easy as might be imagined, for care has to be taken to

PAUKO WILL DIP
NEXT SATURDAY.

A NEW BARKENTINE TO BE LAUNCHED IN BOOLE'S
SHIPYARD.

Still another ship is to be launched in the harbor of Oakland, and in this instance, the auspicious event will take place in the yards of W. A. Boole & Son, at the foot of Adeline street. The new "bride of the sea" is a four-masted barkentine and will be named the Fanko. The boat will glide into the water at 1 o'clock p. m., and will be christened by Miss Gregory. She has been built for Messrs. Hind, Rolph & Co., and will fly the pennant of that firm, which is of white, with the initials of the company in red enclosed within a blue border. A large number of visitors from San Francisco are expected to witness the launching.

so arrange their travels that they will not have too far to journey between nights, nor have to take too many chances as regards possible delayed trains or stages.

The Republican Executive organization is doing admirable work. The four years occupied by Chairman Cutter in the secretary's chair have well qualified him for his present duties, and he disposes of the vast amount of business that accumulates daily with an ease that is surprising. He has the State's political requirements at his fingers' ends, and it is well that such is the case, for the duties of chairman are very trying owing to the variety of appeals that pour in by every mail.

Snook, Steppacher, Spear, Taylor and all the rest of those in constant attendance at headquarters keep things running smoothly, and when Dr. Pardee is in town he occupies a large room adjoining the committee's apartment, and there receives visitors and transacts the particular business that falls to his lot. Tons of literature are being poured out by the committee, for the labor flurry this year has brought about another campaign of education, and the mails are being extensively used as a medium for reaching the voters.

Personal Pointers.

Major Frank McLaughlin, the former chairman of the State Committee, left for the East Monday and will be absent several months, with headquarters at the Hoffman House, New York. The Major always tries to be in California campaign times, but this year it is impossible for him to be on hand, as he is putting through a big deal—one that will net him a handsome fortune if it goes through, as it seemingly will.

Ex-Governor Budd has been making an investment in San Mateo county. He has put several thousand dollars into marsh land property below Redwood City, and is going to convert it into a game preserve. Budd is an enthusiastic sportsman, and contracted the rheumatism that occasionally bothers him so much by sleeping out night after night when duck hunting in the Sacramento marshes. Despite the attacks of the ailment though he is as ardent a sportsman as ever.

Judge Lucien Shaw is up from Los Angeles. While a nominee for the Supreme bench is not expected to make a personal canvass, it is customary, however, to put in an appearance now and then at the voting centers, and the Judge is living up to the rule. His great popularity in the Southern end of the State and the fact that he is known throughout California as an able and upright jurist will serve in good stead now, and he is considered by all to be a sure winner.

Major E. A. Forbes is down from Marysville. He received the nomination for Superior Judge at the recent Yuba County Convention and is now engaged in making what is apparently a winning fight.

Judge Angellotti will leave for the South in a few days. He will visit Los Angeles and San Diego while on the other side of Tehachapi.

Secretary State Curry was in town during the week. His election appears to be a foregone conclusion.

Attorney General Webb is making a vigorous campaign. Although his friends tell him he cannot be beaten he is taking no chances, and intends to make an exhaustive canvass of the entire State between now and election day.

COURT NOTES.

A commission has been issued by Judge Melvin for the purpose of taking the testimony of Albert Tyker and Benton Harbor in the case of Olive M. Hyde vs. the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

The will of the late Thomas Clear has been admitted to probate by Judge Ellsworth.

Judge Ellsworth has issued a decree distributing the estate of the late Stephen H. Morse.

VAGRANCY CHARGE DISMISSED.
The case of Felix Dolan, charged by his brother Hugh, with vagrancy, came up for a hearing in the Police Court this morning, but on the request of the complaining witness and his mother, the charge was dismissed. The defendant promised the court that he would not come away from his mother and brother and not disturb their peace by coming home in a drunken condition.

MOST IMPORTANT.
"I thought you said this was a life-or-death case?" growled the sleepy druggist, who had been awakened at 3 a. m. by a man who wanted a 2-cent stamp.

"So it is," declared the man: "so it is. I've got to mail this letter to my wife at once, that she may get it in time to postpone her return home long enough for me to have a new mirror put in the parlor and the hall repaired. Some of the boys spent the evening with me tonight,"—Judge.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S BUSY
SEASON IS IN FULL SWING

Hawaiian Sugar Season—Personal Mention of the Wrecked Engines Are Came to an End—Track and the Being Repaired at
This Week.—Trainmen, the Shops.

The Hawaiian sugar season has come to a close. The big oil burning steamer Enterprise, with a cargo of 7,500 bags of sugar, has arrived from Honolulu, and is discharging at Long Wharf. This is the last regular cargo for the year.

The season has been a very profitable one for the Southern Pacific. The increase in traffic over last year is about forty per cent.

The season which will open next year is looked forward to as promising to be the greatest in the history of the islands.

The islands have had an ample supply of rain, and plantations which were idle heretofore are growing full crops. It is estimated the imports from Hawaii the coming season will be double the imports of this year.

The feature of the sugar trade this year was the introduction of oil as fuel on the sugar steamers.

The Enterprise has made three trips to Honolulu and return with oil as the only fuel. The success of the experiment has been proved beyond question. Oil is easier to handle, takes up less room and is by far more convenient and less dirty.

Several new oil burning steamers will be put on the run when the next season opens.

HEAVY TRAFFIC.

The Traffic at the West Oakland yards has reached the limit. Without additional rolling stock and motive power the company could not handle a larger volume of business. Every expedient has been resorted to in order to prevent a congestion in freight.

The freight ferry steamers are not capable of accommodating the trade between Oakland and San Francisco by the way of the "wish-bone" route if it were not for the fact that it would be impossible to handle the number of cars which are now being handled.

Daily extra trains are being sent from Oakland by the way of San Jose from San Francisco. As it is there is a light congestion in the yards, entailing a double amount of work on the men.

By next year the lack of rolling stock, motive power and the lack of yards for the new cars will be obviated. The construction of the new yards west of the machine shops is being pushed. Already there are seven or eight miles of new track laid, but the additional room is of little value in holding freight cars as the new yards are rendered hard of access, owing to the machine shops being in the way. The machine shops will be removed to another portion of the yards to permit joining the old and the new yards by direct tracks.

TRANSFER PLATFORM.

The transfer platform is still kept crowded, upward of 100 tons of freight being handled daily. The shipments are principally fruit and vegetables for the Eastern markets. The Livermore Valley provides most of the products.

ROUNDHOUSE WILL BE MOVED WITH THE SHOPS.

Another important change in the arrangement of the West Oakland railroad yards now under contemplation by the Southern Pacific officials, is the removal of the roundhouse at the same time the machine shops are removed. The reason for the change is the same in both cases. The machine shops are directly in line between the old and new switch yards, and the roundhouse is nearly so.

To put a heavy train on the new switch tracks consumes nearly half an hour, as the yards are now arranged. By the removal of the roundhouse and the machine shops the result can be obtained in five minutes' work.

The probable location of the new roundhouse is near the foot of Peralta street. They may, however, be located on tide land south of their present location, which has not been reclaimed.

UNIQUE RECORD OF ENGINEER W. BRADLEY.

Engineer William Bradley, who was thrown a distance of thirty feet, through his cab window, in the collision Tuesday morning at Niles, when three engines were wrecked and derailed, is over 76 years of age, but still holds the throttle with the firmness that many a younger man could well be proud of. When a younger man, although not unusually large, he was a giant in strength. He is still considered a strong man, and is able not only to hold down the engineer's cab, but to handle almost any of the young firemen who break in under him. His grip is strong, and his walk as sprightly as a man of forty.

The fall that Bradley received when he was thrown from his engine by the collision was enough to put an ordinary man in the hospital. The veteran engineer did not even miss a run. He took another engine out the same evening, and has worked steadily since the accident, although his arm, legs and side were badly bruised by the fence on which he fell.

Bradley has been in the service over fifty years, and is said to be the oldest engineer on the active list.

The only complaint Bradley makes relative to the accident is that his engine was smashed and had to be laid up for repairs.

WRECKED LOCOMOTIVES ARE BEING REPAIRED.
The three engines which were smashed up in the wreck at Niles Junction, were taken to the machine shops, and are rapidly undergoing repairs. In fact, one of the engines, the one pulling the San Jose local, has been turned out of the shops already. A new pilot cylinder and a few incidental repairs was all that was necessary to put the engine in running order. No. 1681, the big freight engine which caused all the trouble, was the worst damaged of the three engines. It will be some time before she will be on the active list again.

No. 1430 will be out again in a week. The officials of the company have taken the matter of placing responsibility under advisement. No pilot will be visited upon any of the trainmen until after all the facts have been brought out.

An additional fact has been brought to light relative to engine No. 1681 running away. It seems that Engineer Ward reversed the lever and applied the air brakes just before the crash came. The tube by which the air is applied broke the moment after the collision. The wheels of the engine being released from the grip of the air, soon carried the engine flying down the main line track. It was at first thought that Engineer Ward had forgotten to put on the air, but a subsequent investigation revealed that he was not negligent in this particular.

The wrecked engines will come out of the shops as oil-burners.

MELROSE OIL TANKS ARE NEARLY COMPLETED.

The six 35,000-barrel oil tanks which the Southern Pacific Company is erecting at Melrose for storage purposes, are nearly completed. Five of the tanks have been finished with the exception of the roofing, and the sixth is in the course of construction.

When the tanks are completed they will hold over 200,000 barrels of oil, which is equivalent to 70,000 tons of coal, which is a larger amount than is carried at the West Oakland yards.

Tanks along the Southern Pacific's lines are reported to be nearly completed. In California the company has over fifty tanks, with a storage capacity of 1,500,000 barrels.

The new 55,000 barrel tank at West Oakland is ready for oil.

TWELVE PONTOONS FOR THE OGDEN CUT-OFF.

Foreman F. V. Carman of the mills, has received orders for the construction of twelve pontoons for the Ogden cut-off. These pontoons will be used for laying the foundations for the fifteen-mile trestle which is in the process of construction across Salt Lake.

Several million feet of lumber is already on the ground. The recently constructed steamer Promontory, is finished and ready for service.

FIFTY MEN ARE AT WORK ON THE MODOC.

Superintendent Bruce has put fifty men to work repairing the damage done by fire to the steamer Modoc. The work of tearing down the superstructure is well advanced, and will be completed in ten days or two weeks.

Foreman Carman, of the mills, is already turning out the lumber to be used in the reconstruction.

INTERESTING BREVITIES FROM LONG WHARF.

Large quantities of Oregon sugar pine have arrived for the Southern Pacific Company. The lumber will be used for ties.

The steamer Enterprise is discharging a cargo of Hawaiian sugar.

The Mount Stewart and General Gordon have finished discharging and have left for Port Costa.

The Port Crawford has finished discharging and has left for San Francisco. The Glory of the Seas has also finished.

PERSONAL MENTION OF THE RAILROAD MEN.

Yardmaster Hackett will shortly leave on a vacation.

H. T. Rowland has been promoted to day yardmaster.

Charles Jacobus, of the scale house, is at San Jose, where he is spending a two-weeks' vacation among friends.

C. Albers has been made night foreman at the yards.

M. Duncan has obtained a leave of absence for two weeks.

Foreman S. C. Terry, of the Mendota shops, and Foreman Dickenson have returned from Portland, where they were on an extended visit. They made the trip down on the ocean, and had a disastrous experience from the standpoint of seasickness.

A. J. Maylan has left for a duck hunting trip. He will be back Monday.

W. J. Reed has returned to the Farallone Islands.

Machinist George James is taking a lay-off owing to an injury to his hand.

Arthur Holliday, of the Railroad Review, was an interested visitor at the shops during the week. He took notes of the devices used at the shops, and will devote an extensive article to the one in which iron is handled here. He discovered a number of new methods which interested him.

Machinists Emerson and W. A. Greene are temporarily laying off on account of minor injuries.

Fred Reed, of the mills, is on the sick list.

THE LATIN QUARTER OF PARIS.
Even after a careful adjustment it takes some time to find the particular pivot on which it is desired to turn in this city of art and artistic proclivities. For the genius or the very talented way is marked out clearly. Such may boldly attack landscape, figure or portrait painting; may even live to see their names set in a little halo of glory. But for the less gifted, the pursuit of art, in its highest expression, means usually a struggle of years, with failure, or, worse still, mediocrity, standing dismally at the end.

During the last two or three years a change, remarkable to those who know it well, has come over the old Latin quarter. A spirit of increased seriousness prevails, and life there is more temperate. All the romance, the fascination and unconventionality of life are still there, but singularly enough the Quarter has been deserted by the altogether frivolous. Comparatively few American girls come here now to study. This may be due to the natural outcome of much that has been written in the way of warning to those whose latent tendencies are scant. And, with all its changes for the better, it cannot yet be said that the Quarter is an altogether safe place for the unguarded girl to live in. Its temptations have lost none of their subtle character. Much here enters prominently into daily life which in America is kept so far in the background as almost to be forgotten. There is also a deeply pathetic undertone which sometimes, through individual tragedies, comes glaringly to the surface.—Harper's Bazar.

DISAPPOINTING BOYS.

It is said that when President Hadley was a youth he was not only peculiar in habits, but a disappointment in many ways to his parents. He was eccentric and apparently without promise.

When he was a young boy his mother took him to New York, where she met a friend also engrossed with family cares. To her Mrs. Hadley related her troubles, dwelling particularly on the one uppermost in her mind.—Arthur. The friend tried to console her by saying:

"Well, bear up and never mind, dear. My son is almost as bad."

"Of wonder," said the man who is responsible for this story, "what she would say if she could have seen Hadley conferring the degree of LL. D. on Theodore Roosevelt, the President of the United States!"

"Perhaps," she suggested a listener, "Roosevelt was the other son."

Speakers of prominence will be present to address the meeting and there will be anvil, bonfire, fireworks and a band to help entice the gathering.

Every Republican in the district is interested in the progress of the club, and all are working to make it one of the largest and most enthusiastic in the county.

On Friday evening, October 17th, the Republican candidates will speak in Haywards, and on that occasion the Pardee-Anderson club will turn out in full force. They will demonstrate to the candidates that this is one of the best Republican districts in the State.

MONEY TURNED OVER TO BOARD OF TRADE

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Oakland Board of Trade held yesterday, a communication was received from the Alameda County 1902 Knights of Pythias Committee, enclosing a check for $170.30, being one-half of the surplus in the hands of that committee. The following letter was by order of the Board sent by the secretary to the Knights of Pythias committee:

"Alameda County 1902, Knights of Pythias Committee, Gentlemen: The Board of Directors of the Oakland Board of Trade, in meeting assembled, desire to acknowledge the receipt of your check for one hundred and seventy dollars and thirty cents ($170.30), representing one-half of the surplus in your hands after paying all your bills for the entertainment of the visiting Knights of Pythias on the occasion of the annual convocation in August.

"We desire at this time to express our thanks to your committee for the same and to assure you that the money will be expended in advertising Oakland and Alameda county, for which purpose, we understand, it was originally intended.

"The directors of the business-like manner in which it handled the funds entrusted to its care, and for the truly magnificent manner in which it entertained its many guests with such credit to Oakland and Alameda county.

"We are confident that much good will result to this city and county, again thanking you, we are, very respectfully, Oakland Board of Trade, EDWIN STOKES, Secretary.

"To James R. Stout, President Knights of Pythias Committee, and J. N. Bonham, Secretary.

The letter accompanying the check thanked the Board of Trade for the assistance rendered to the Knights of Pythias Committee and stated that the moneys were collected from the business men and banks for the purpose of advertising Oakland to the visiting members of the Knights of Pythias from all over the country. That after paying all the bills for the entertainment of the visitors a balance was on hand. To return that balance to all the donors, the Board of Trade gave a very small amount indeed to any single one of the donors, so the Knights of Pythias unanimously voted to divide the balance between the Oakland Board of Trade and the Merchan's Exchange, to be used for the purpose for which it was originally donated—to advertise Oakland to the outside world.

The directors of the Board of Trade expressed themselves particularly pleased to think that a committee had performed such excellent work and attained such results, as it was the universal opinion of all visiting Knights that they were better entertained in Oakland than in any other city, and yet have a balance in the fund. The letter from the Knights also thanked the Board of Trade for the use of the rooms during the convocation.

He had been accused by the investigating officer of threatening "the millionaires" and the President.

"What did you say about the millionaires?" asked Dr. Milton.

"Nothing," was the reply.

"What did you say about the President?"

"Nothing," was the reply. "It was all a misunderstanding."

Then Gannon repeatedly buried his fingers in his eyes, during the eye-balls back in the sockets.

"Why do you do that?" asked Dr. Medros.

"Simply because I want to drive them out of my eyes," was the answer.

Soon after, Gannon, unquestioned, broke out in a tirade against the President.

MILLIONAIRES
LOOKING AT LANDTHEY MAY ESTABLISH LINKS IN VICINITY OF SAN LEANDRO.

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 3.—San Leandro may soon become a dangerous rival of Burlingame across the bay as a meeting place and summer residence for the smart set. A plan is now on foot which may bring to this side of the bay a great many of Burlingame's finest horses and the new colony is between this place and Elmhurst. Along the edge of the foothills and in and about the Talbot and Dunsunm places is located a stretch of the best country imaginable for golf links and polo grounds, while the climate and the beauty of scenery is equal in every way to that of the surrounding Burlingame, headquarters of San Francisco's fashionable set.

It has just been learned from a reliable source that within the past week there has been in this neighborhood a party of Burlingame, supposed residents of Burlingame, who have been investigating the surroundings with the purpose in view of building up a colony similar to that of Burlingame. The beautiful Dunsunm property and Talbot place have been viewed by these people, and the location has apparently met with their favor. No statement of their intentions was made, but people who have come in contact with them have been led to believe that their plan is to secure a suitable site for a fashionable meeting place for their class.

The reason for such a move is equally as vague. It may be due to some split in the select circle of the "Newport" across the bay, or it may be that these men have seen in this district the location of a better field for out-door sports than can be found on the other side. No active steps have as yet been taken, and until some move is made it will be hard to ascertain what is on foot. Great interest, however, has been created among the few who have become acquainted with the movements of these men, and the result is a considerable number of people who are now looking on this side of the bay with interest.

Another feature of the country on this side which, no doubt, has not missed the eyes of the investigators, is the beautiful view of the bay and the city of San Francisco, which can be seen from the hills between Oakland and San Jose. On the other side of the bay, the view is not so good, while on this side of the bay the view can be made to San Jose on an almost level road.

The names of the men who have been investigating have been withheld until a decision has been reached as to what action will be taken.

ENJOYED EXCURSION.
The following people yesterday enjoyed the semi-weekly excursion to Oakland and Alameda county: W. Scanlon and George Hook, Sydney, Australia; A. Remick, James F. Driscoll and A. ALL TASTES PROVIDED FOR AT THE LEADING THEATERS.

Another Week of Melodrama at Macdonough— "East Lynne" Will Cause Tears at the Dewey—Other Attractions.

To-night and to-morrow night at the Macdonough Theatre the play will be "In the Hands of the Enemy."

For the second week at the Macdonough, beginning next Monday night, the Shirley company will offer a selection of plays so varied as to suit the taste of all theatre-goers. Sunday and Monday the celebrated melodrama "Blue Grass" Tuesday and Wednesday, "Camille" Thursday and Friday, the famous war drama, "In the hands of the Enemy" Saturday matinee, an old-time favorite, "The Two Orphans," and "Doris," the play made famous by Miss Shirley, for Saturday evening. Miss Shirley's support is better than the average companies. The management deserves a great deal of credit for the way the plays have been staged and presented.

"Blue Grass," the opening play, is a melodrama that has been the hit of the season in the East in all the larger cities. It is a story of old Kentucky, full of exciting scenes and incidents, bubbling over with comedy that keeps the audience in good humor all through the piece. The story is woven around a young lawyer who conceals from his wife the story of a past infatuation for a beautiful adventuress. This woman suddenly appears in the neighborhood as a visitor, and by her schemes and insinuations arouses the jealousy of his wife. The husband arranges to meet this Nemesis at an old ruined church, where arrangements are to be made for the return of a package of letters used by her for the purpose of blackmail. The young wife, stung by jealousy, follows him, only to find the dead body of the coquette. Suspicion falls on the young lawyer, who is arrested for the murder. One of the most thrilling scenes in the play is where the celebrated "White Caps" are in force attempting to hand the supposed murderer. The piece affords opportunities for handsome settings and costumes—a real live baby adds to the naturalness of the home and to the pleasure of the ladies.

The repertoire for the second week of the Macdonough Theatre is as follows: Sunday and Monday—"Blue Grass" and "A Story of Old Kentucky." Tuesday and Wednesday—"Camille." Thursday and Friday—"In the hands of the Enemy." Saturday matinee—"Two Orphans." Saturday Night—"Doris."

"EAST LYNNE" AND TEARS AT DEWEY THEATRE.

To-night and to-morrow night the play at the Dewey Theatre will be "After Dark," with James Ward as Old Tom.

Next week, at the Dewey, will be popular emphy emphy emphy witnessed a grand revival of one of the most popular plays ever produced in this country. This will be the play of "East Lynne," which has been played here, save to large and faithful audiences. "East Lynne" has a great hold upon the emotions and sympathies of women, and when ladies go to see it, also, will go their brothers, husbands and sweethearts. The romantic feature of "East Lynne" has always insured to it the patronage and appreciation of people just over the line of youthful manhood and womanhood. The features of the domestic tragedy which forms the climax of the piece appeals most strongly to those who have experienced the pleasures and some of the pangs of married life. It is human nature for people to see human nature depicted upon the stage, even though that depiction occasions pain. Tears always fall when "East Lynne" is produced, a fact which means that there will be ladies galore at the coming performance.

An interesting announcement in this connection is that the dual part of Lady Isabel and Mrs. Vane will be presented by a new leading lady, who has never played here, and who is said to be an actress of rare emotional power. Her name is Miss Adelaide Leard, and she is bound to make a hit. This play will run all the week.

TWO FINE OPERAS AT TIVOLI NEXT WEEK.

Next week the Tivoli will present "Carmen" on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings, and "Don Pasquale" on the alternate evenings, and at the Saturday matinee. "Carmen" will contain about the same cast as it did the last time, with the exception of the tenor, which will be sung by Michele de Padova. "Don Pasquale" is new to this house, and should make a hit, as it is very popular with the Latin element. De Spada, Zouhri, D'Albano, and De Padua will take part. "Norma" and "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria" are scoring tremendously this week.

NEW STOCK COMPANY SUCCESS AT THE ALCAZAR.

The success of the new stock company at the Alcazar is assured. It opened most brilliantly on Monday night with "The Ambassador," and at every performance since, the theatre has been packed to the doors. The new people, Suzanne Santje, Charles A. Millward will appear as Basil Jennico, formed more than was promised for them. There will be an extra matinee Sunday, but, hereafter, the matinees at this house will take place on Thursday and Saturday. The first Thursday matinee will take place October 9, Monday next a very strong attraction will be presented in the romantic play by Alice Sage Richardson and Grace L. Parsons. "The Bride of Janney," founded on the celebrated novel of that name. It will be beautifully mounted and very strongly cast. Charles A. Millward will appear as Basil Jennico, William Lump will be Sir John Beddoes, and Suzanne Santje will have a fine opportunity as the Princess Marie Otille.

NEW COMEDY COMING TO CENTRAL THEATRE.

The program for next week at the Central will consist of the celebrated farce comedy, "Where Is Cobb?" which, as a provoker of laughter is without an equal. It will be handsomely staged and greatly enlivened by the introduction of a number of clever songs and dances, and diverting and original specialties. The cast will be an exceedingly strong one, and will include Henry Shumer, Edwin Thier, Ernest Howell, Thomas Keirus, Elmer Roth, Reginald Barker, Walter Whipple, W. Beckwith, George Cooper, Agnes Rankin, Florence Chapman, Margaret Marshall. Monday evening, October 13, by special arrangements with the author the management will produce the celebrated drama "Under Sealed Orders." It will introduce the new leading lady, Eugenie Thais Lawton, who has the reputation of being an exceedingly beautiful and gifted actress.

GOSSIP OF PLAYERS AND PLAYS ALL OVER.

Mrs. Emma Calve is making no secret of the fact that she is to be married to George Cain, a friend of her youth, but she declares that her wedding will not interfere with her forthcoming Parisian engagements.

The bankers of New York State have bought up the entire seating capacity of the New York Casino for the evening performance on October 3. No one will be admitted to the Casino that night save invited guests of the Bankers' Association.

Many of the poorer peers and peeresses of England, to whom coronation robes were an extravagance, have sold them to theatrical managers, who will use them in the Christmas pantomimes with the names of the original owners mentioned on the program, to add interest.

Miss Florence Leonard, said to be the prettiest and most charming of all American actresses, is playing "Camille," the adventuress, in "Lost in New York." She is described as of the Gibson girl type, her natural expression of haughty disdain admirably fitting the part she plays so well.

Mrs. Robert Osborn's new society season in New York is exciting curiosity just now. The playhouse is designed for the fashionable set. The curtain will not rise until 9 p. m. Only those in full evening dress will be admitted, and single seats on the lower floor are to be $3 each. The venture is being financed by a number of society millionaires.

LITERARY NOTES OF THE WEEK.

NEW BOOKS AND PERIODICALS ISSUED BY THE EASTERN PRESS.

"The Long Straight Road" is a charming story, by George Horton. It is told in an excellent manner and is most beautifully illustrated. One of the charms of the work is the fact that the author does not in the preliminary chapters reveal his purpose, so that the reader is kept in suspense until the end of the book. The story is only at rare intervals that the person who pursues the work divines the climax which the author has in view. There is a love story into which the author has injected a rare pathos, simplicity and devotion and the denouement is not apparent until the very last page has been reached. The book may well be placed in the home library. It is published by the Bowen-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

A CHINESE QUAKER.

The title of this book, "A Chinese Quaker," is the poet-philanthropist, Whitman's phrase, and itself focuses a uniquely romantic story. It is called "an unfictioned novel" for the dramatic, even tragic situations, the revelations, the development, the denouement and the ending, and the whole seems so like wholesale inventions of the novelist; while all the essentials of the story are literal fact. A young Quaker woman with feelings antagonistic to the Chinese, is led to take a heathen boy in charge. Under her training, he becomes a consistent friend. He is now a high mandarin at the head of large enterprises in China, and a Quaker still. Secondly, the story makes appalling revelations of women slavery on the Pacific Coast. Although a native of Maryland, Mrs. Fyster, the author of the work, has spent a considerable portion of her life in California where she has been active in behalf of the Chinese and the Indians, in the cause of temperance, the advancement of woman, and in special education. She has been president of the Woman's Indian Association of California, and of the Pacific Coast Woman's Press Association. She was vice-president of the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, and was State Lecturer on Scientific Temperance Instruction in the Public Schools, and State Superintendent of the W. C. T. U. She has devoted much time to the personal instruction and moral elevation of the Chinese. The hero of the present book has been intimately known to her from boyhood. Her immediate purpose in writing it was to awaken an interest in a neglected race with which, in the country's new responsibility as a "world-power," we are bound more and more to mingle.

THE INVISIBLES.

"The Invisibles" is a story of thrilling interest, by Edgar Earl Christopher, which mingles the cruelty and intrigues of Russian diplomacy and secret work. There are scenes of thrilling interest which are worked up in a masterly manner and described with the grace, ease and effectiveness of a trained writer. The story becomes more intense in interest as chapter after chapter is revealed. The hero dominates the whole work, and although he is not always present, at the same time, he animates the whole story and his presence is a very welcome one indeed. The book is published by the Scribner Publishing Company, Akron, Ohio.

McCLURE'S.

"McClure's Magazine" for October has a leading article, "What Labor Has Learned," is filled to repletion with readable articles and excellent picture work. It is published at 141 East Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE.

"Scribner's" for October is both rich

Globe says, since its organization ten years ago. With six transcontinental trips and two European tours to its credit, the Sousa Band has given no less than 420 concerts in the United States, Canada, England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany, in 600 different cities. The travel has been incessant, and equal to about ten times the circumference of the earth. The British tour of the band was a remarkable succession of ovations to the American conductor and composer during the entire three months of its duration.

Ever since Richard Mansfield told an expectant world that he would play both Brutus and Caesar at every performance of "Julius Caesar," this coming year, the papers have been wondering just how he would do it. One critic has collected and tabulated a few of the guesses, as follows:

(a) Mr. Mansfield, as Brutus, will stab a reflection of himself in a mirror held by Cassius.

(b) He will change the scene so that Caesar may commit suicide, either by stabbing himself, shooting himself or jumping overboard.

(c) He, as Brutus, will throw the knife toward Pompey's altar, and then, as Caesar, will spring into its path and receive its cold steel in his viscera.

(d) The whole thing will be a bluff and he won't stab himself at all.

(e) The scene will be presented by the kinesiograph.

(f) Caesar will stab Brutus.

(g) They will stab each other.

(h) Cassius will stab both of them.

(i) A musical comedy turn will be substituted for the stabbing scene.

(j) Caesar, like "Davy Crockett's" dog, will say, "Don't stab."

(k) Brutus will aim his knife at Cassius, but will miss him, and it will fly across the stage and strike Marc Antony, who will yell for the police.

Julia Marlowe is now rehearsing her new drama, "Queen Flametta," the name of which is probably taken from Boccaccio's ancient heroine.

Charles Fox, now playing in "Lost in New York," has been engaged for the leading role in "At Saratoga," a new musical comedy to be produced next season at the "Silver Slipper." It is to have a big production at the Broadway Theatre in New York, October 27. The principal members of the cast will be Edna Wallace Hopper, Cyril Scott, Sam Bernard, Pearl Landers and Mlle. de Villiers, and practically all of the original "Floradora" sextette girls will be there, too.

BALLOON ASCENSION AT MID-NIGHT.

Between most cleverly designed covers comes the story of the author's first experience of a balloon ascension at midnight. It is a very well done bit of pen-picturing and as one reads, one seems to enjoy the emotions of a balloon journey. The story is written by George Eli Hall, the Consul-General of Turkey in San Francisco and are some of the experiences that he had while making an ascension from Paris in June, 1901.

THE LITERARY DIGEST.

Unusual care has been taken in making this week's issue of the Literary Digest a key to all that is happening in the political, religious, and social world. Comment on Speaker Henderson's sensational retirement is given much space and Devery, New York's ex-Chief of Police, comes in for discussion. The reproduced cartoons are a feature this week and the regular departments prove as entertaining as ever. An unusual number of illustrations appear in this week. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

THE PILGRIM.

With a very attractive cover and containing plenty of carefully selected reading matter, the Pilgrim for October will be widely read by all classes. It has several interesting stories with illustrations, a description of Longfellow's "Wayside Inn," talks on current topics and fashions for the ladies. It gives photographs of Mary Queen of Scots and of Cleveland campaigning in his automobile and devotes considerable space to the discussion of the political question. Published at Battle Creek, Michigan.

VOICE FROM UTAH

MRS. DOWD'S SIGNIFICANT WARNING TO MOTHERS OF GROWING GIRLS.

"Mothers cannot be too careful of girls who are approaching womanhood," says Mrs. D. F. Dowd, of Nephi City, Utah. She speaks from the fullness of experience, for her own trouble began with the first critical time of her life. "From the time I was sixteen years old," she says, "I suffered constantly from female weakness and my present good health is due entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as you will see. I caught cold," she continued, "at a critical time and endured tortures as a consequence. My color became very bad, I was nervous and grew constantly worse. Then I began to have palpitation of the heart and my blood became in a wretched condition. I felt tired and languid all the time and was hardly able to get around at my work."

"None of the medicines that I tried made any difference in my health. I was nearly discouraged when I heard from my uncle, Mr. J. Brandon, Sr., of Logansport, Indiana, telling me that he had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with the greatest benefit for nervousness. Then I decided to try them myself, with the result that, after taking two boxes, I found I was much better. A few boxes more made me feel like an entirely different person and now I am able to do my work with ease. All my friends know what good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People have done for me."

Any woman who is ailing with the troubles peculiar to her sex should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. No discovery of modern times has proved such a blessing to all women as these wonderful vegetable pills. Acting directly on the blood and nerves, and regulating the functions of the system, they restore the strength and health in the exhausted patient when every effort of the physician proves unavailing. These pills are sold in boxes at 25 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had at all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

When Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt retired as the mistress of the White house from the domicile of the President to the home at Oyster Bay, she will leave as a souvenir of her administration of that part of the President's official life which will endear her to the hearts of the future mistresses.

The White house is now being thoroughly renovated, and when it is completed the business quarters will be removed from the home. With the change of the interior decorations and structural work the White house will also have a new set of china and glassware which will be the envy of every housewife in the country. It is doubtful if there is another set as handsome in use in the United States, and while not so expensive as some sets in use in the homes of foreign monarchs, yet this set will compare favorably with any in use in the United States, even among the extremely wealthy citizens. The price to be paid for this new porcelain service is not divulged, but it is claimed it will be in the neighborhood of $20,000 for the set of 500 or more pieces.

This service was designed by Theodore R. Davis and illustrated exclusively in American fauna and flora. The designs were made in water color, and, although in nearly every instance they are bold and striking, they were difficult to reproduce on porcelain with hard mineral colors, and to successfully accomplish this it was necessary to invent new methods and have recourse to peculiar mechanical appliances. This service was made to be used for state occasions and had always been greatly admired.

Mrs. Roosevelt, however, wanted something different to that which was already in use, and nearly a year ago she sent for Charles M. Van Heusen, of Albany, N. Y., and commissioned him to visit the noted factories with the idea of submitting a collection of samples for Mrs. Roosevelt's inspection. She said she was in no hurry for it, and did not care particularly whether the set was finished in time for her husband's administration, but she wanted something for the White house which would be in keeping with the dignity of it, and when she left his personal seal, but which is the same as the seal of any notary public. The other is the great seal of the United States, which is so rarely seen now that but few are acquainted with it. It was finally determined that the great seal should be enameled on the service, and then the hunt for samples commenced.

After several months of searching Mr. Van Heusen submitted to President and Mrs. Roosevelt for their personal approval seventy-eight different and exclusive designs. They ranged in price from $15,000 to $50,000. For months the matter had been the thought of many of the noted decorators of china, and possibly never before has there been a more beautiful collection of original designs in ceramic art presented to the consideration of any with a similar idea in view. It seemed as if any taste could be gratified. Deep, rich reds, beautiful blues and yellows, rose du Barries, and the different shades of greens, to the simplest treatments that can be imagined, were submitted to the lady of the White house.

The glassware is also strikingly beautiful. It consists of 144 pieces, and is "Store practice" is what it will probably be called, though so little are its details worked out that even this title cannot be said to have been definitely adopted. It is New York city that has brought this fresh idea into being, and it is in the new Girls' Technical High School that starts this fall and will be in full operation by midwinter that "store practice" will be established.

Principal William McAndrew, who will build up this Girls' Technical High School, made a careful study this summer of the avenues for work open for the average New York girls who must wholly or partially support themselves after they get to 16 or 17. He found that a large percentage made their way into the department stores and other shops of the metropolis, taking places as saleswomen. Owing to marriage the personnel of the saleswomen forces, he further discovered, was constantly changing, and there was always room for fresh recruits. His investigations and his talks with employers also showed him that there would be a large demand for girls who were trained.

The new Girls' Trade School will agers say is half the battle. Then they will be instructed expertly in weights and measures, in the art of doing up bundles; they will be taught about goods and merchandise of all sorts, qualities, prices, handling. Besides this, much attention will be given to penmanship that is plain and figuring that is accurate.

Thus the young girl by the time this course is completed will have a very clear idea of just how big stores and small stores are run, and in her line she will be an expert, trained with a good deal of care not only how to sell, but how to behave.

Girls are to enter this course after graduating from the grammar school, averaging fourteen years of age. The first year of the "trades school" course will be general, and its study obligatory. All the girls will take the same course, this comprising English, French, German or Spanish; home and social science (to include cooking, the managing of homes, sewing), a little primary chemistry, elementary nursing, and some of the important principles of physics.

A TRAVELING TABBY.
A unique passenger arrived the other morning from New York on the Central and after stopping there a few hours, whirled away in the direction of Vancouver. She pays no fare, yet travels everywhere, and her meals are provided by loving friends. She is Tab, the railway cat, just a plain Matinee of plump figure and eyes that have of her friends, and she soon acquired the restless habit that gets into men, sometimes.

There are many palpable lies told about her adventures, and Cy Warman is credited with a very lively tale about the time she saved a train on Santa Fe. There is probably a grain of truth in each of the many stories told of her, but the adventures are vain honors, and the real facts are ably ensconced on a Gladstone bag in the baggage car.

BIRDS IN THE AUTUMN.
Although suburban birds are neither singing nor nesting as in spring and early summer, they seem almost as busy and quite as numerous now as at any time of the year.

There is a good parallel between the conduct of birds and that of human of anger.

They seem to have lost their tameness of the early summer, and to rise and fly at the sight of a human being. It is just possible that the wilder robins of the woods and fields now visit suburban lawns and gardens in search of food, and being unused to the neighborhood of human beings, exhibit this fear at their approach.

They are, however, the only ones that go in small troops at this season. So the English starlings that live in the upper edge of the Bronx fly about in little flocks of from six to ten, lighting in the tops of the highest trees, a habit which they hardly seem to abandon even in the nesting season.

Doubtless the gathering of the birds in flocks is in a way premonitory of the season of flight, and only about six weeks off. The robins, for example, simply cannot combine the two together.

A case is cited of a dipsomaniac who could drink anything rather than water. She required something which would bite and sting, and she would drink red ink, or, in fact, almost anything that was acrid. And so some fruits—at the outset, perhaps, unripe fruits—might help to remove any un-fruits. It is on them that the apes maintain most of their vigor.

Thus the almonds can be thoroughly masticated, or else pounded or milled. It is rich in oil, as well as in proteid. Almonds and raisins, which are so often taken after a full meal, are, like cheese, absolutely a complete meal in themselves; so great is our ignorance about food values.

It is said of the almond: "Nut cream is recommended for brain workers. It is made as follows: Pound in a mortar or mince finely three blanched almonds, two walnuts, two ounces of pine kernels, steep over night in orange or lemon juice. This cream should be made fresh daily, and may be used in the place of butter.

"Milk of almonds is made of the kernels finely minced, with boiling water added. Almonds roasted to the color of amber are delicious to eat with biscuits or bread and butter.

"Grated in a nut mill they are good to serve with any kind of stewed fruit. They are useful medicinally, because of their soothing and emollient properties. They should always be blanched in hot water, the skins being indigestible."

Good fruits should be chosen, and not pulpy and fibrous rubbish. These fruits should be carefully washed and eaten while still fresh, if possible.

As to the peel, some cannot digest it; but the juice within and near the peel is valuable, and hence the peel should be boiled and the strained water taken as a drink, or at least added to some dish.

The fruit cure is probably the pleasantest of all cures. It has many varieties, oranges, apples and grapes being three of the best-known kinds.

A certain society girl, with wonderfully clever fingers and a positive genius in the art of gowning, is making all unknown to the world at large, a good income, as well as enjoying a pleasant existence by going out among her friends as a visiting dressmaker. A robe, directing the sewing women and putting everything in systematic order, besides designing gowns which are made in the house. Together with her artistic talent the girl is personally extremely attractive, and what is best of all, she is remaining in that capacity until 9 o'clock the next morning, when she resumes her vocations for the day, with a recess at midday, when, of course, she takes luncheon with the family. While she makes no secret that she is a dressmaker, she is not averse to being called for her profession. She mixed it with a black sauce, flavored with fish, she then lifts it to her mouth and crams it down with the aid of her chopsticks. Thus ends her dinner.

DAINTY MAIDENS OF JAPAN.

The almond-eyed dainty little female of Japan is easily satisfied in the matter of food. She begins the day by eating when she wakes a couple of little green plums pickled in vinegar and what is best of all, she is remaining in that capacity until 9 o'clock the next morning, when she resumes her vocations for the day, with a recess at midday, when, of course, she takes luncheon with the family. While she makes no secret that she is a dressmaker, she is not averse to being called for her profession. JUPITER'S GREAT RED SPOT.

No Satisfactory Explanation of Presence Has Ever Been Given.

The characteristic feature of the planet Jupiter, now the chief ornament of the southern evening sky, is, as is well known, a spot of red color that girdles in greater or less number, and which are in the equator region, and which are of varying intensity and different hues. At the present time the red spot is of a deep red color, and is surrounded by a dark belt of light salmon or a tawny brown. The best distinct streaks are of a deep brown. The spot is surrounded by a surface is broken by the frequent appearance of spots, dark or bright, which sometimes assume the form of a circular change for several months, and occasionally persist for more than an entire year. The red spot is situated in the appearance in the planet's southern hemisphere, which soon became so remarkable as to attract the general attention of astronomers, and to be the subject of no little speculation. Of a pale violet hue when first seen, it had in the following year assumed a deep red color, and was by far the most conspicuous feature of the planet's surface. It was situated just above the dark band which is known as the planet appears in an inverted telescope. In form it was an elongated oval, of a length about equal to one-third of the diameter of the planet.

about one-fourth as great. Its actual length was therefore about 30,000 miles.

The spot is still a ring surrounding the equator of the ring, now, however, instead of being pinkish it is the same as that of the dark equatorial ring in which the spot is now fairly imbedded. The temperature of the light center of the equator is the same as formerly. The central area is of a pearl-white coloration, and the surrounding light center belt, which is yellowish-white.

No satisfactory explanation of this very remarkable object has even been given, although it is not unlike the clouds which float in the planet's atmosphere, especially concerning its surface, which is undoubtedly covered with water. These belts, while they never lose their striking parallel arrangement are constantly changing in form and in details. But this spot, unchanging in form, has no appearance of being a cloud. It is the general opinion of astronomers that it is a permanent feature of the body in a condition intermediate between an earth and a sun. Is this remarkable spot a part of the planet's surface, or on the outer planet, or on the outer planet, or is it a region on the outer planet that is for some reason bright and shining? Is it a part of the clouds above it? Each of these suppositions has been made, as affording a possible explanation of this unique phenomenon. It is not clear whether the planet is the cause is that the spot is not a feature, but drifts slowly and at a variable rate.

TOWN TALK.

This week's Town Talk contains several exclusive bits of news—an engagement, among other things, that will be of great interest to society on both sides of the bay. How Peter Martin's papa-in-law went a-swimming is also recounted in an amusing paragraph. The crown prince who is coming, and his ancestors, is the subject of another paragraph. The Financier gives some interesting points about the Hawaiian affairs. There is a clever little story, and some unusually brilliant miscellany. The editorial on the political situation is well worth reading.

NATURAL-LOOKING WAVES MADE WITHOUT THE USE OF AN IRON.

Fall Frocks Beautified By Handwork.

Bridal, passementeries and embroideries are offered this fall in gorgeous display. Some are Persian, with dark Oriental colors, brightened occasionally by a twisted gold thread or pattern of old silver cloth; some are Japanese, brilliant, almost grotesque in their weave and design; others are just artistic and attractive trimmings.

If one is attracted by the embroideries she certainly is startled at their value. One gown, elaborately trimmed, is worth more than the cost of a summer in the country for most persons. And yet we must have them, and an occasional shopper has solved the problem how.

She first did that thing dreaded of salesmen—looked samples of the new dress materials. These she took home and studied. The camel's hair and rough-ribbed cloths seemed most popular and workable for street gowns. For midweek waists she could find nothing prettier than crepe de chine and silk batiste, and a robin's egg blue broadcloth for the morning gown.

With these materials at hand she drew upon her ingenuity and the memory of the embroidery displays for her trimmings.

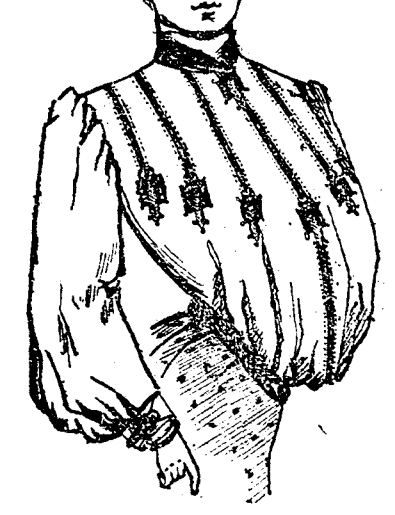

First she took up the camel's hair. It was dark blue, with long, silvery hairs giving it sheen. Here was the ideal of the idea for its decoration. Four yards of black velvet, cut on the bias, and two spoons of knitting silk, one black, one white, were bought. The velvet was cut into five-inch strips, saving enough for the belt. These pieces were sewed together, lined with ermine, three inches marked off for the end, and the rings formed by tracing them around a spool. This was done on the wrong side with colored crayon. The design was then cut out, leaving perpendicular stems to the disks. The gown being completed except for the finishing, the velvet band was faced in at the bottom and each stem and disk carefully basted in place. Two threads of the white silk were laid flat across the first space, up the stem, around the wheel and on to the next, being couched diagonally with the black silk. When all was finished, rays of the white silk were made to point to the center of each wheel. The velvet band on the sleeves has the rings outlined with the couching, but not cut out, and at the throat they are graduated.

Satisfied with this success she passed on to the next.

This was a loosely woven rose cloth, with soft loops of black and white, shaggy thrown up so as to give the appearance of a scruple. Plain rose by adroit, couched with tiny ticks, formed the collar and cuffs to the oversleeves. White silk muslin was used for the soft vest and undersleeves. Sage green velvet bordered the collar and cuffs.

IMITATION OF PERSIAN EMBROIDERY.

and formed the belt. These colors entered into the exquisite Persian embroidery. Or, was it Persian? Surely it was Oriental, for such points in dull colors exist only in the brains of our far Eastern friends. She had cut queer-shaped oblongs from white cloth, outlined them first with black silk braid, then gold thread. A rude circle was cut from the center and through this passed a strip of cloth having a similar border. The main surface of the oblongs was broken by diagonal crosslines of green and blue. These were laid in so closely that they formed satin stripes which terminated in a series of odd squares at the narrow sides. These squares were of rose, green, ivory, with now and then a touch of black. The white background was not entirely covered. Heavy Roman silk floss had been used, and this clever woman pronounced the satisfaction in the result more than worth the effort. This silk works quite rapidly.

The blue blouse was then undertaken. The ornaments for this were made in separate pieces. A round mould, broader at one side than at the other, was first covered with black velvet, then a fancy, narrow ribbon passed three times through the center and across the front face. An oblong, one and three-quarters by one and a quarter inches, was then cut from the velvet. In one of the oblong sides were inserted two widths of the ribbons, fastened together at one edge. The oblong of velvet, tab and ring were then outlined with a ray chain of knitted gold wires. The full length when finished was just four inches. The result was quite as charming and satisfactory as in the other experiments, so the white crepe waist was now given full attention. A pretty pattern of leaf-shaped undulations in black Brussels lace had been chosen. These were neatly sewed on white taffeta and the centers cut out. The effect was a border of black lace, with the centers cut out to show signs of the ribbons. A rose, a white five-petaled blossom and a forget-me-not formed this dainty border. Just the sort of thing that charmed our colonial grandmothers and have been so much affected in our "Dolly Varden" fashions.

These medallions when completed were arranged at the corners of the large collar. Stems of the net and a lattice work of the silks used in the flowers connected them. The collar itself was of white taffeta with clusters of rainbow, stretched tulle and in the full neck front these same flower colors were produced in three stitches forming small diamonds. Square motifs were covered with the taffeta, long and short stitch making a fence like edge decoration. A large black silk button filled the center. Loops of black Roman silk completed the outline of the medallions, making a perfect harmony with the lace and embroidery.

White soutache braid may be crossed so as to form square and each of these be filled with a spider web of many colors. For this thread an embroidery needle with the several colors desired, and, keeping perfectly straight, a large web will be made very quickly.

A coarsely woven braid may be made a thing of beauty by filling it with diamonds of loosely made French knots. Sage green and Indian red broadcloths will be much used together. Connect them into one band by any of the simple and repeating forms seen so much on Indian baskets. If flowers are desired, square their edges.

Handsome tabs can be made of broadcloth, outlined with the narrow silk braid and containing some geometrical center formed of French knots.

Gas Wouldn't Light.

Knowing that electricity had been used in lighting the house, the man who was putting in the gas range asked the mistress of the house if she would know how to use it.

"Certainly," she replied. And to show how much she knew she forthwith turned on the gas. It made a noise, but no light appeared. She turned it off, then on again, but still there was not a sign of a blaze.

"That's curious," she said at last. "Something's the matter. You must have set it up wrong."

"I guess it's because you forgot to use a match, madam," suggested the man.

For the straight-haired woman there dawns a brighter day. Let her throw away curling pliers and papers and abandon curling irons. There is a little trick to be learned whereby she may make her hair assume fascinating curls all over the head, and the best part of the new idea lies in the fact that these curls made without irons actually defy fogs and rain.

To be fashionable, one's coiffure must now be arranged in a series of undulations all over the head, while the pompadour, particularly, should show a softness that makes it becoming to nearly every face.

The curly-haired woman has had her lining and has gloated over her less fortunate sister who has struggled for hours to get her stringy locks into presentable shape only to see them straighten out in the damp air or blow into unattractive wisps. Now her mind may be at rest and her pretty head may rival the crowning glory of the Lorelei.

It has always seemed a pity to use curling irons on the hair, for no matter how carefully they are wielded the hair will sooner or later crack and split under the treatment. Plus likewise spoil the natural beauty of a fair head, while papers, though less harmful, are out of date on account of their blueness.

But waves are fashionable, so waves we must have, and many a lovely head of hair is utterly ruined in the endeavor to keep it up to the mark of fashion. Besides this destruction to the life and beauty of each hair, there is an appalling waste of time curling the hair every day with the irons. Perhaps this hour or hour and a half might not seem much of a loss if, in the end, the hair derived some benefit from their use, but unfortunately this does not happen to be the case. Now, the new method, which does away entirely with irons and heat in producing waves, may be considered in quite the opposite light, and the woman who tries it for a few successive weeks will find that her hair has improved astonishingly under the treatment, while in the meantime her waves have been a source of envy to every other feminine creature.

REPEATING THE PROCESS ON THE SIDE OF THE POMPADOUR.

In the beginning it may be well to say that some heads of hair are vastly more amenable to any curling process than others, but eventually they all will conform to the much-desired style if carefully and properly treated. Time is required in any case, but the average head ought to show signs of permanent waves and improvement at the end of three or four weeks. At first, too, it is necessary to go through with the curling arrangement over and over that it will be better.

What the American men have done in the capturing of foreign trade the American women are planning to accomplish in the sartorial realm. With this modest ambition some of our American dressmakers have formed an organization bearing the somewhat formidable title of the Dressmakers' Protective Association.

They admit the past supremacy of the European makers of modes, but claim that for several years past the foreign gown-makers, which they have enlarged and amplified and turned to a dozen different uses. American dressmakers go to Paris twice a year, and bring back the models that strike the note of change in fashions. From these creations of Paquin, Doucet, Raoul-Duval, Callou and others equally famous, the American dressmaker gathers the foundation for her own creations, and from a particularly effective and becoming line she finds the motifs for four or five different gowns, each distinct one from another, yet all having the same source. So beautiful are these dresses and so original is their style that the question naturally comes up, Why isn't the American dressmaker capable of wielding the fashion's scepter? With all her originality, ingenuity and cleverness, her ideas have had their inception in Paris models, but what the new association aims to show is that American designers may be independent.

There are two things in which the designer across the water excels our dressmakers. These are the European's study of detail and his art in combining colors.

In the first instance, if the Americans surrendered to the importance of detail, and made out of it all that was to be made, they would not be able to derive their greatest successes from foundation ideas original with their Yankee competitors.

Nothing is of too little importance in the way of details for the European to work over and from which to evolve something new, and the Americans have only themselves to blame, and their national fault of hurrying on to something new before the old has been turned, twisted and made to serve again and again.

As to the second count, it is the laborer instinct of the European which brings about such delicate and such daring combinations of color, such lovely results from apparently discordant foundations. In this respect the dressmaker over the water has always excelled.

While it is acknowledged that the American dressmakers have made rapid strides, and that there is a great future for the kingdom of style, the most enthusiastic American patriot never is more enthusiastic over American styles than when she is wearing some irreproachable creation from across the water.

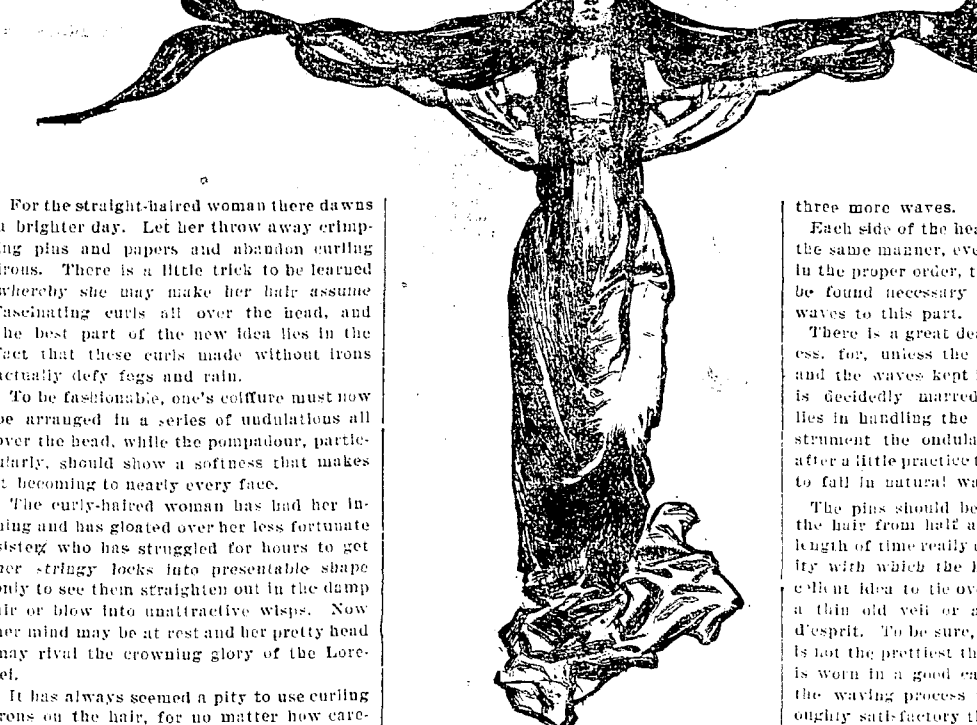

The optimistic American dressmaker believes, however, that if Europe is ready and willing to adopt Yankee methods, other spheres than that of fashion, there is nothing in the way of its surrendering to the American styles but a prejudice in favor of the designers across the water. How far this is true remains to be seen.

The association has planned and begun a vigorous campaign. The most prominent dressmakers of the Western Continent ressembled in this city recently to attend the opening exhibition of the association.

Miss Elizabeth White, the president of the association, said: "We American dressmakers are after the credit which belongs to our nation, and in order to give an exhibition of what we have accomplished in the past, and show how far along the road to supremacy we have gone, we mean to establish and equip offices in the fashion centers across the water. We shall open branches in Paris, Vienna and Berlin first, and these offices will be for the display of American art in designing and making gowns, and for the purpose of encouraging Americans to originate attractive models to compete with the native ones."

"You see, Europe never has been called upon before to recognize its Yankee competitors in this line, and we have never really settled upon a fashion center on our own side of the water. All this, however, may be changed after we have established our dressmakers on the Continent, where their ideas and designs may be molded by the hair has fallen into the way it should go.

We will assume that the hair is to be worn low on the neck and undulations are desired in the pompadour and sides. The first step is to part off the hair from ear to ear, as one would before doing it up. The hair should be thoroughly brushed so that there are no particles of dust or dandruff to make it look dingy, and above all there should be no oily appearance to detract from the beauty and softness that are so essential to the well-groomed head.

When all these points have been carefully observed and the front hair has been separated from the rest, the next step is to divide this portion into three sections, each one then being brushed down over the face and moistened slightly with some good odorless tonic. A tonic is used instead of water, simply for the reason that it is considered more beneficial and a certain dampness is required to make the hair easy to handle.

Now comes the real trick of it all, and the novice will find herself feeling all fingers and thumbs until she has acquired the knack of making waves.

MAKING THE FIRST WAVE.

pompadour is taken up first and combed straight back from the face. Then with the comb a wave is produced, and it must be remembered at this point that nearly every head of hair has a natural inclination to wave, either to the left or the right side, and this tendency must always be observed and followed. When the first wave has been placed it should be held in position with the little finger of the free hand, then the second undulation should follow, so that the space between is in accord with the wave, and this in turn should be held down with the thumb finger.

The same method of procedure should be continued until all four fingers are holding down undulations, and then, before releasing the fingers, very small wire hairpins should be employed to fasten close to the head the series of waves just formed. Usually this number of undulations will be found quite sufficient in producing a pretty and well-balanced head, but when a very low style of coiffure is desired, in order to have these waves reach all the way back to the knot, it will be necessary to go through the waving and pinning process to the extent of two or three more waves.

Each side of the head is treated in exactly the same manner, every step being repeated in the proper order, though it will not often be found necessary to do more than four waves to this part.

There is a great deal in this pinning process, for, unless the hair is held quite flat and the waves kept in even rows the effect is decidedly marred. Part of the trick lies in handling the comb, for with this instrument the undulations are formed, but after a little practice the hair may be trained to fall in natural waves.

The pins should be allowed to remain in the hair from half an hour to an hour, the length of time really depending on the rapidity with which the hair dries. It is an excellent idea to use this part of the hair a thin old veil or a piece of soft point d'esprit. To be sure, this sort of head wear is not the prettiest thing in the world, but it is worn in a good cause, and the result of the waving process will be found so thoroughly satisfactory that one can excuse the means employed. Besides, pins and veil could never equal in ugliness paper twists and curious arrangements once upon a time used on millinery's pretty head.

When the pinned-down hair is quite dry the wire hairpins should be removed and the hair lifted off the face and carefully combed through with a coarse comb. Then it should be allowed to hang over the face in order to permit of the drying operation. This goes away with the wearing of a "rat" and makes the pompadour stand out in a soft roll that is perfectly light and comfortable on the head. The inner side of the pompadour, from the line of the part exposed on the forehead.

tending from ear to ear, is "puffed up," by running the comb in several short movements, through this inside layer and toward the head. When a sufficient foundation has been given to all the waved part of the hair is drawn up and rounded pretty over the mass of hair.

The actual waving of the hair in this manner is really far simpler to do than one would think, and after the trick has been followed for a short time it will be surprising to note how naturally the hair falls into the way of curling, so that even in damp weather a woman may venture forth happy in the knowledge that at last she is able to defy the elements that once proved destruction to ringlets and waves not the gift of nature.

SHOWING THE FRONT ARRANGED IN SOLID WAVES

What You Can Do With $150 A Year.

"Feathers and flowers are lovely, but I never buy them," remarked a stylish-looking woman, "nor silk waists and petticoats. They are too expensive."

Her companion surveyed her critically before replying: "Yet there are few women of my acquaintance who are so uniformly well dressed. You look smarter than most of them, and—almost interrogatively—"must spend at least $400 annually on clothes."

"Nothing like it! My allowance is exactly $150. Thirty dollars is set apart for incidentals—toll necessities, the hair dresser occasionally, sometimes the chiropodist—leaving $120, or $10 a month, for clothing, and I make a point of spending every penny of it every 12 months, not a cent more or less."

"The most important item is the broad-cloth tailor-made street gown. By going to all the best shops it is always possible to find at some one of them a first-class quality at a reasonable price, and it is extravagance to buy anything excepting good material, as this gown must be the standby for a year. The silk lining should be of good quality as well. By the way, never purchase anything but a black lining, even if the cloth is of some other dark color, because this is one of those instances where one and one make one and not two; that is to say, a portion of one half-worn lining added to a portion of another in similar condition make what is practically equal to a new one. Street gowns are smartest trimmed with the same material or with stitching, and there are tailors who will make a coat and skirt for from $12 to $15, according to the amount of work, furnishing hooks, sewing silk, etc. We will allow $27 for the cloth gown. The first year it serves for church, for the theater and for evening. You may be certain, however, that there are never any risks taken, and if the weather is at all threatening, last year's dress is donned."

"Next in order is a large gown, always black. By waiting until the midsummer sales $10 will purchase a very good one; possibly even a robe. Here is an opportunity to utilize the old black silk linings. Any seamstress can put a robe dress together, and although in some instances the making costs $2 it is frequently less. That is my sole evening gown, if you insist upon crediting me with anything of the kind, at $15, and must do duty for dinners, and even for the opera should I be so fortunate as to receive an invitation."

"THE SPECIAL SILK FROCK."

"It is always an easy matter to find a good quality of china silk at 50 cents a yard, preferably without any design and in a dark color. This will answer for a street gown in warm weather, and is useful throughout the entire year. A good dressmaker will come to the house for $2 a day, and by sewing with her constantly, she will have the frock in such condition that I am able to finish it by myself. The waist only is lined, and with lawn. Another dealer will buy thread and every little trifle necessary, as the frock is invariably trimmed with the same material."

"For house wear in winter a cashmere at 50 cents a yard, trimmed with ribbon or a little silk, looks well enough to appear in so many who may call. In summer a morning dress of glenplaid at 10 cents a yard alternates with the one of the previous year, and a pretty lawn, also at 10 cents a yard, trimmed with inexpensive lace—say, 20 cents for the lace—takes the place of the winter cashmere for an afternoon dress. By the way, there is usually enough material left over from the thick and thin house dresses to supply dressing jackets."

"Of course, there isn't any opera cloak! For the theater I have to rely upon the coat belonging to the cloth suit, and whenever a warm cashmere shawl answers every purpose, and is not conspicuous in a street car, as the gown is invariably of a dark color."

"I avoid tea gowns. That road leads to extravagance. They're lovely and wonderful becoming, but I realize the limitations of my purse and simply never think of them in connection with myself, as it is impossible for an amateur to get up an artistic one, and therein only lies their effectiveness. Of course, a thick and thin wrapper are absolutely necessary. Mine, however, are exceedingly simple and do not claim the most distant kinship to the aristocratic tea gown."

BLOUSES FOR ALL SEASONS.

"Separate waists? Yes; six of them. Three shirtwaists of the white lawn, ready made, at $1.50 each; two others of dannel, to wear, in winter underneath the coat, at $1 each (the materials only), and one of lace, black or white alternative years, for as this sort of waist is worn merely on state occasions it lasts for two years. The lining is usually new, at an expenditure of $1.50, $2.50 pays the woman who puts the garment together, and $3 more will buy the lace itself."

"How about petticoats?"

"Never a black silk one; all other colors seem to wear better than black silk, when it comes to using silk for a petticoat. There is a shade of golden brown which blends nicely with almost any color, and a deep silk blouse sewed on a mohair foundation skirt proves satisfactory. Black and white silk also wears well, or gray and white. You will find that two of these skirts will be quite sufficient for one year, and that $5 is enough to set aside for petticoats."

"Camolet, muslin and imitation Valenciennes lace are cheap, and a few dollars covers the item of lingerie. Expensive corsets and fine stockings are out of the question; the latter at 25 cents a pair do well enough, and eight pairs of them are sufficient."

"No, I never buy parasols, but whenever one of my woman friends asks me what I would like best for a Christmas or birthday present—oh, yes, I do have birthdays, even yet—the reply is something to the effect that a sun umbrella is always useful."

"Ten dollars may seem an absurdly small sum to devote to hats, and would certainly not be enough if they were ornamented with ostrich feathers or flowers, but as they are invariably black and of chiffon, straw or velvet, trimmed with ribbon and birds, or portions of birds, despite the Audubon people, $5 each season—that is, winter and summer—will be found sufficient to purchase covering for the head, especially in these days when an elaborate hat is necessary for the theater and not good form for church. One dollar will buy all the veils necessary if you take care not to tear them when taking them off."

FEET MUST BE NEATLY SHOD.

"Two pairs of walking boots and one pair of Oxford ties at $2.50 a pair will carry the woman who does an ordinary amount of walking through a year, and at this price shoes of excellent material and shape may be procured. It is a meagre amount to allow, and while it will keep the feet neatly shod, is the minimum sum, adding $2 for necessary repairs."

"Sometimes it is possible to save a little money on some articles and spend it on others. For instance, there are rubbers and slippers. They usually last longer than one year and need not always be considered when allowing for necessary expenses."

"This sounds as though there was a great deal of sewing to be done at home, but it is all so simple a nature that any girl of 16 could do as much without overtaxing her strength or her brain or her time. Besides, I don't go in for fancy work, unless you mean fancy cooking, and that is something you haven't been talking about."

The Woman And Her Face.

Once upon a time a woman had a quarrel with her features because they made ugly faces at her when she looked in the glass. She scolded and scolded, but it all did no good.

Finally she sat in front of her mirror, and with rouge, powder and black pencil veiled deliberately to work to show her face how wrong it was, and succeeded.

After a time she smiled a smile of intense satisfaction, and her face smiled pleasantly back at her.
